Five Ponies Are Killed In a Bizarre Crash

EAST KINGSTON

State Police today continued investigation of a spectacular motor vehicle accident on Route 32 that killed five ponies, including three racers, and barely missed a sixth. The animals were owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Balough, of Route 1, Box 180, Kingston.

Badly Battered, Torn

A car owned and operated by William Boughton, 33, of Agnes Street, Port Ewen, which authorities said struck and killed the ponies as they roamed along the highway not far from their pasture, was a total wreck after it came to a stop against some of the badly battered and torn animals.

Boughton and a passenger, 21-year-old Barbara Bovos, of 172 Downs Street, Kingston, were injured in the bizarre accident. Both were taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service. The driver of the auto was treated for multiple abrasions of the face, and the young woman was treated for lacerations near the right eye, authorities said.

No charges had been filed by investigators.

The vehicle was traveling along the main highway, near a curve when the occupants of the car came upon the ponies that had strayed from pasture. The auto reportedly plowed into the startled animals, fatally injuring them as they were hit and thrown some distance, some off the highway against guard rails.

Had Been in Corral

Mrs. Balough, who with her husband an Ulster County Highway Department employee owned the ponies, said the animals had been in the corral. The Baloughs reportedly were unaware that a tree had fallen on a fence and smashed the timber at the rear of the East Kingston property.

"I was in my home early Sunday morning," Mrs. Balough told a reporter, "when I heard the humming of the motor of an automobile coming along the main road. She explained that weather conditions apparently prevented her from hearing any noises caused by the crash or from the ponies as they were hit by the car.

The woman said she was told the ponies evidently had strayed on the property and eventually made their way to Route 32, the main highway that runs through this community just outside the Kingston city line. Mrs. Balough said someone went to the house and told her husband of the tragic accident. Balough went to the scene and saw the dead ponies strewn along the highway and off the road.

Entered in Races

"My husband had entered Gee Gee and Velda in pony races at Livingston and also at the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck," Mrs. Balough said. "He was training one of the others for racing."

As she related the details of the accident, Mrs. Balough was weeping. "One of the ponies, Honey, belonged to my granddaughter," she sobbed.

A sixth pony, named Stardust was the only one of the animals living today. "The car mowed down the other five," the woman sobbed.

State Troopers Robert Malloy and W. T. Wilson were assigned to the investigation immediately after Kingston State Police officers were notified at 12:36 a. m. Sunday and the investigation is continuing, it was reported.

The remains of the five ponies were cleared off the highway and carted away.

'...Boarding Us', 3 Yachts Vanish

WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN — Swedish yachtsman Christian Von Sydow, his American-born wife, Joan, and their three daughters are shown in a family album photo. Two daughters, Christine (L) and Sarah (smallest in center) were on board the yacht "Reverie" with their parents when it was apparently seized by Chinese gunboats. The other daughter is unidentified. HONG KONG (UPI) —

Western diplomats today asked Peking for four Americans and 11 other persons aboard three yachts harassed and then apparently seized by Chinese Communist gunboats.

More than 24 hours after one of the yachts radioed "They are boarding us!" there still was only official silence from the Chinese Communists on the fate of the 15.

The yachts fell victim to the gunboats Sunday during a weekend cruise from this British Crown Colony to Portuguese Macao, 45 miles down the Chinese coast.

"It's almost a foregone conclusion that they are in Red China. But we just cannot say definitely until we hear from the other side," a Hong Kong official said. In Macao, boatmen said they saw two of the yachts at a tiny Chinese Communist fishing village six miles north of there.

British, French and Swedish diplomats, whose governments have diplomatic relations with Peking, pushed Peking for information. Besides the Americans — a man, two women and a 10-year-old girl, the other lost yachtsmen included three Swedes, two Britons, four Hong Kong Chinese, a Frenchman and an Australian.

American sources said the United States planned to make its push during a scheduled Thursday meeting between U.S. and Chinese Communist representatives in Warsaw. The United States and Communist China have no formal diplomatic relations.

Three other yachts carrying 10 persons were bumped and boarded by gunboat crewmen during a Hong Kong Yacht Club outing to Macao. But they were allowed to pass when the gunboat crews spotted a picture of Chinese Communist party leader Mao Tse-tung aboard one.

The U.S. consulate general identified the four Americans as: —Carol Pauline Zinky, 10, stepdaughter of Hector H. Ross, a British Hong Kong government employee and owner of one of the missing yachts. He too was among the 15. Carol's father is William Roy Zinky of Colorado Springs, Colo.

—Joan von Sydow, wife of a Swede who owned one of the missing yachts. She was born in 1921 in Spokane, Wash. Her husband Christian and daughters Christine, 15, and Sarah, 12, also were missing.

—Simeon Baldwin, an aircraft engineer born in 1912 in Los Angeles. He had listed his address in the United States as 1359 Cliff Dr., Laguna Beach, Calif. His wife and two children were reported in the United States.

—Bessie Hope Donald, 46, of Bristol, Va. She, along with a Hong Kong Chinese, was aboard the Baldwin yacht.

2-Day Drug Haul Nabs Six in Area

KINGSTON — Narcotics involving alleged sale and criminal possession figured prominently in weekend activities in Ulster and Greene counties and resulted in six arrests. Meanwhile, in Columbia County the director of a private drug control center and a supporter said they wanted to be arrested to test an anti-drug center ordinance.

Five persons including a 17-year-old girl and a Puerto Rican native, were taken into custody on Saturday in Gardner.

Charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs following a routine traffic check were: Jane H. Steres, 17, of 62nd Avenue, Queens; Cesar Pares, 23, of Villa Nevarer, Puerto Rico; Jose F. Sierra, 17, of 3413 Broadway, New York City; Joseph E. Vega, 24, of Hunts Point Avenue, Bronx; and Walter R. Bregon, 22, of West 57th Street, New York City.

The defendants were picked up by State Trooper Stanley Roberts of Highland in a routine traffic check. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers and BCI Investigator L. M. Luongo entered the subsequent investigation and questioned the five persons.

Authorities said they confiscated a quantity of marijuana, hashish, LSD and TPC, a drug similar to methadone.

Carnegie Sign Ups

Enrolling for Carnegie class reservations for the Kingston Dale Carnegie class are now being accepted, it was announced by Hal Schultz, Dale Carnegie area manager.

The course is being offered in Kingston under the sponsorship of The Daily Freeman as a community service.

"Inquiries already received in the Kingston Daily Freeman office indicate a high degree of interest in this world-famous adult education program," Schultz said.

"Since enrollment in the class is limited," he added, "anyone interested in knowing more about the course should write or call The Daily Freeman at 331-5000 as soon as possible."

State Police. Cabral was booked for criminal sale of drugs in the first degree.

Catskill Town Justice Charles Link committed the defendant to the Greene County jail and adjourned hearing until Feb. 19 after Cabral said he wanted to obtain counsel. Authorities said marijuana was involved in the investigation.

In the Columbia County community of Hillsdale, Dean Hepper, director of the three-month old Kinsman Hall Narcotics Center, and Charles Dana Gibson, former chairman of the planning board of that community, said Sunday that they hope the anti-drug ordinance of the town will be tested because it is blocking the way for some prospective financial backing.

A town spokesman said the ordinance, which bans the use of any building in Hillsdale for the care of drug users, has not been enforced yet because it seems likely the facility will have to close soon for lack of sufficient funds.

"We didn't want drug addicts from huge Suffolk County, with a population of a million, to be dumped on the little town of Hillsdale, population of 1,200," Town Atty. William Daley said.

24-Hour Tet Truce Ends And the Fighting Renews

SAIGON (AP) — The thunder of bombs from U.S. B52 bombers reverberated throughout Saigon tonight as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces resumed offensive operations after a 24-hour truce for the start of the lunar new year.

Allied infantrymen resumed some 60 operations they had interrupted briefly for the new year festival known as Tet, and U.S. warplanes went back into action. The aim was to maintain pressure on Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces so they could not repeat the Tet offensive which gave the allies such a setback last February.

The allied truce ended at 6 p.m. Saigon time, and 22 minutes later waves of B52s were dropping tons of explosives only 31 miles north of Saigon on the fringes of Communist War Zone D. Seven miles west of the capital, smaller American fighter-bombers attacked a Viet Cong bunker complex.

In the central highlands, American artillery opened fire on enemy troop concentrations near Kontum City 45 seconds after the truce ended. Military spokesmen said the allies would ignore the rest of the seven-day Viet Cong cease-fire, which runs until 7 a.m. Saturday, just as they ignored the first 35 hours of it.

U.S. headquarters said the enemy violated their own cease-fire and the period of allied truce with at least 170 attacks during the 53 hours from 7 a.m. Saturday until noon today.

Headquarters reported that 128 of these incidents occurred during the first 18 hours of the allied truce, including an attempt early today by hundreds of North Vietnamese to overrun a U.S. Marine artillery base near the Laotian border.

During the allied truce, U.S. headquarters said, eight Americans were killed and 71 wounded, while American forces killed at least 96 of the enemy and captured seven.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced that 16 government soldiers had been killed and 86 wounded since 7 a.m. Saturday. A spokesman said government troops killed 110 enemy soldiers and captured 61 during the same period.

The spokesman accused the enemy of taking advantage of the cease-fire although many of their attacks were on allied reconnaissance forces, which the Viet Cong had indicated it would Shau Valley.

While allied offensive operations were halted during the truce period, both air and ground reconnaissance continued.

The Marine command in Da Nang said an estimated 50 North Vietnamese launched a series of attacks in a four-hour period, getting within a few feet of the Marines' artillery pits at Landing Zone Cunningham, 390 miles north of Saigon in the reconnaissance forces, which the Viet Cong had indicated it would Shau Valley.

A Friend, Indeed— Dutchess Pair OK

RHINEBECK

Timely arrival and quick action of a friend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Martin on Hull Street in the Northern Dutchess County community of Staatsburg, today saved the lives of the couple, who were discovered unconscious in their carbon-monoxide filled home above the family garage.

State Police BCI officers and uniformed troopers reported that Martin had apparently had left the motor of his automobile running after parking it in the garage.

A spokesman at the Northern Dutchess Hospital described the condition of the couple as satisfactory, and added, "they are much better than when they arrived by ambulance."

Martin, 60, described as a butler at the Hull estate in Staatsburg, and his wife, Marjorie, 65, who also reportedly was employed by the same family, were discovered unconscious in their apartment by an unidentified friend who reportedly went to the house to find out why the couple had not reported for work as usual.

Troopers said the man received no response to knocking on the door and his calling, and he detected poisonous fumes. The man forced his way into the Martin Apartment and found the couple unconscious. Authorities were immediately notified.

The Hyde Park Rescue Squad was summoned by authorities. The rooms of the apartment were cleared of the deadly fumes, as rescuers applied artificial respiration. Martin and his wife responded to emergency treatment, and both were rushed to the hospital here.

Troopers continued investigation of the near tragedy.

Leak in Sealab, Tests Are Halted

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—A leak in the Sealab III underwater laboratory-habitat today delayed the start of a Navy experiment to test man's ability to live and work beneath the sea.

Four aquanauts spent the night inside a compression chamber on a surface support ship anchored over the 70-foot long yellow chamber on the ocean floor 610 feet below.

The four aquanauts today were to descend to the Sealab III in a personnel transfer capsule to attempt to stem the leak. It apparently was coming from a fitting in the chamber's hull.

Five teams of nine aquanauts will spend 12 days each inside the Sealab III, working and living on the Continental Shelf at a depth greater than ever before for such a sustained period.

While on the bottom, the teams will investigate human performance, test special equipment and conduct oceanography experiments. They also will build a waystation on the ocean floor to evaluate special lift devices and other tools for underwater construction.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The narrow pantry of the Ambassador Hotel erupted in pandemonium moments after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy fell mortally wounded. Two employees grappled with the bushy-haired gunman.

Roosevelt Grier, Los Angeles Rams tackle and Kennedy's "unofficial bodyguard," pushed through the crowd and pinned Sirhan B. Sirhan and the two employees over the steel steam table. He swatted away a pair of hands reaching for Sirhan's neck.

Grier, 6-foot-5 and 285 pounds, testifies for the prosecution today at Sirhan's trial for the assassination of Kennedy. Grier retired from the Rams last year and now hosts his own weekly television variety show on a Los Angeles station.

Also scheduled to testify today were Jesus Perez, a kitchen helper at the Ambassador who talked with Sirhan early last June 5 while, in the next room, Kennedy delivered his victory speech after the California Democratic presidential primary.

Perez told the grand jury Sirhan asked him "three or four times" whether Kennedy was expected to come through the pantry after he finished his speech.

Other scheduled witnesses at today's session were Angelo DiPierro, another hotel employee; Martin Patrusky, a waiter; Harold L. Burba, a Fire Department photographer; and two members of the Kennedy campaign staff, John W. Gullivan Jr. and Frank J. Burns Jr.

The prosecution presented its first five witnesses during Friday's session before Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker. One of them, Vicent DiPierro, a part-time waiter and Angelo's father, came down to the hotel just to see Kennedy. He told the jury of eight men and four women:

"People tried to grab him (Sirhan). They were just pulling at him, trying to kill him. Everybody was screaming and cursing. It was just completely pandemonium."

Climactic Testimony

Former Governor at Shaw Trial

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The state indicated today it will close out its trial-within-a-trial of the Warren Commission and its assassination conspiracy case against Clay L. Shaw this week with the climactic testimony of former Gov. and Mrs. John B. Connally of Texas.

The Connallys were riding in front of President John F. Kennedy and his wife in the jump-seats of the presidential limousine Nov. 22, 1963, and Connally was seriously wounded in the brief burst of shots that killed Kennedy.

They were subpoenaed to testify today and were ready to fly here from Houston, where Connally now practices law, but the prosecution advised them Sunday it would not be able to get to them "because of holdover witnesses" unable to appear earlier.

Shaw, 55, retired managing director of the International Trade Mart here, is accused of conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie in September, 1963, to murder

Kennedy. He is not charged with murder, only with plotting its case, witnesses who saw the Dallas murder, or were on the scene, in an attempt to show the Warren Report was wrong mentioned. The state has in saying Oswald alone killed brought on, in what the law Kennedy.

The trial will be recessed Tuesday for the annual Carnival of Mardi Gras, and the judge has said he will try to find a hideaway vantage point on an avenue for the all-male jury to see the big parade.

Republican Twin-Bill

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Ulster County Republicans were treated to a twin-bill Saturday when an open house was held late in the afternoon at the new local offices of their state and Washington political representatives and at a dinner-dance at night at which Assembly Majority Leader John E. Kingston was speaker.

Before Kingston spoke of Republican leadership and Abraham Lincoln, the Long Island Assemblyman donned a turtle neck sweater and took his wife and children on an afternoon walking tour of the historic stockade area of Uptown Kingston, visiting the Senate House.

Later he told the more than 300 attending the Ulster County Republican Women's Club dinner, "We want a Republican Party that cherishes all that is great and good in its heritage but which recognizes that we live, as Lincoln did, in an era of dynamic change. It was Lincoln who said, 'the dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate in the stormy present.'"

Lincoln himself, high hat beard et al., made his appearance in the person of Sen. Jay P. Rolison who strode through the crowd in his best Lincolnian manner as everyone sang "Happy Birthday."

Kingston, introduced by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., asked for a Republican Party that rejects extremism of both the right and the left. He asked that the party's doors be open to all men and women in the mainstream of American life and thought without regard to race, color, creed, national origin or economic status.

"To this end we must get closer to the people, as Lincoln did," Kingston continued, "and this applies to our candidates as well as our political organization."

"To this end we must demonstrate to the people that we are a responsible party; its leaders speak with candor and as Lincoln knew that privileges and responsibilities are indivisible."

Appearing on the dais and introduced by the GOP County

Secretary Edward W. Snyder were Congressman Fish, Sen. Rolison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who together with U. S. Senator Charles Goodell are sharing a complex of offices at 292 Fair Street in Kingston. A "first" in political history, both Bell and Rolison said Saturday that the "one-stop shopping service" has been established for the convenience of the residents of Ulster County. Saying that people are often confused as to which of their representatives they should go to with a problem or suggestion, the office offers opportunity to seek such information easily.

POLITICAL FIRST—For the first time in political history, "a one-stop shopping service" for residents of the 28th Congressional District will be in operation in a complex of offices located at 292 Fair Street. Sharing adjoining offices at the same address are U.S. Senator Charles Goodell, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., State Senator Jay P. Rolison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell. Several hundred visited during an open house Saturday afternoon. Shown in Assemblyman Bell's office are (L), Bell, Congressman Fish, Sen. Rolison and two visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hoar of Ellenville. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Campus to Stay Open, Is Pledge of Hayakawa

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco State College, hit by homemade bombs twice in four days, begins the spring semester today with its acting president vowing to keep the campus open.

Two explosions rocked the administration building early Sunday, blowing out 14 plate glass windows, touching off two fires and injuring a campus security officer.

The officer, Derek Pitts, was passing within a few yards of the explosions in a patrol car. He suffered a mild concussion but put out the fires.

No arrests were made. Witnesses said they saw two youths running from the area.

Dr. S.I. Hayakawa, named acting president two weeks after minority students and sympathizers began a strike Nov. 6, called the explosions "just another of the neo-Fascist actions" by dissidents trying to close the campus.

Another bomb knocked out two windows in a student lounge Thursday night.

Hayakawa vowed to keep the campus open all spring, with police force if necessary. He said 18,000 students enrolled for the fall semester had been trying to transfer to other schools. Picketing, demonstrations and sometimes violence have accompanied the three-month-old strike.

The black studies department, which had been tentatively set to begin operations this semester, now won't begin until next fall because of what Hayakawa called "sabotage" by Nathan Hare and other Negro faculty members.

The president said Hare no longer had his support to become head of the black studies department.

Hare and several other Negro dissidents interrupted a speech by Hayakawa to faculty members Friday by jumping onto the stage and heckling the president until they were removed by police.

Army Gives Long Terms For 'Attacks on System'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three of 27 soldiers accused of mutiny in a stockade sitdown have been sentenced to long prison terms. Four more go on trial today.

The army sentenced Pvt. Nesrey Sood, 26, of Oakland to 15 years Thursday. On Saturday Pvt. Larry Reidel, 20, Crescent City, Calif., drew 14 years and Pvt. Louis Oszepinski, 21, Florida, N.Y., drew 16. The sentences will be reviewed and can be appealed.

"We must consider the interests of the Army," said Capt. Dean Flippo, summing up the prosecution's case against Oszepinski. "It is the attack on the system that counts."

He asked the general court martial to decree "sufficient confinement to reflect the seriousness of the mutiny."

The 27 soldiers are accused of mutiny for staging a sitdown in the stockade of the Presidio here in October, to protest living conditions and the death of a prisoner shot when he bolted from a work detail.

Scheduled for trial today were four Californians, all privates: Harold J. Swanson, 19, San Leandro; Michael E. Murphy, 19, Tracy; John D. Colip, 20, Sacramento; and William G. Hayes, 22, Healdsburg. Reidel and Oszepinski were found guilty Friday after a psychiatric board judged them sane.

HEW Secretary Calls It Pangs of New Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says the Justice Department filed recent school desegregation suits in the South without consulting him.

Finch wrote off the incident as part of the birth pangs of a new administration, but he called for more coordination in the future.

"We're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation," he said. "But we haven't been in office long enough to get that working relationship established yet."

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed the lawsuits in Louisiana and Houston a few days after Finch had described the cutting off of federal aid as the ultimate weapon in school segregation disputes.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Finch said the files on the Southern school districts were turned over to the attorney general. "The timing and the nature and the institution of these actions are entirely under his control, and are not done in relation to this department," he said.

Finch made these other points:

—His department is following, but re-examining, school desegregation guidelines inherited from the Democratic administration.

—The Supreme Court has prohibited "deliberate discrimination" but not segregation as such.

—If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in Finch said, is not prohibited by law.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination."

"And so you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination."

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Finch said a proposal by

Nixon task force for setting a federal floor under welfare payments was being considered.

"It's not a case of taking over the functions of the states in the welfare field," he said. "It's a case of trying to find a broker, age, or a mean level, between the enormous disparity of an $8 figure in a Southern state or a $70 figure in an industrial state."

Finch said he hoped the welfare changes could be initiated before the end of the Vietnam war.

The secretary held out little hope for a massive block grant program that would pump billions of dollars of federal revenue into state and local economies.

"We're just spread too thin as we do abroad," he said.

Finch agreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that states and cities face a major fiscal crisis, but disagreed with Rockefeller's suggestion that the federal surplus be continued to pay for some of the education costs now borne locally.

Anti-Busing School Issue Looms as Albany Feature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republicans counted on their complete control of the legislature today to bar the practice of busing school children as a means of promoting racial integration.

New, anti-busing legislation was being prepared for action by the Senate this week, with the clear prospect that it would win Assembly approval as well.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges told The Associated Press that his house would pass the measure, possibly on Wednesday.

Killed by Demos

The Senate, under GOP rule, approved an anti-busing bill in 1966, but Democrats commanded the Assembly then and killed it in committee. Further efforts were suspended temporarily.

But, with the shift in electoral fortune that restored the Assembly to Republican control this year, the busing issue is being revived.

This time, the ban has been written into a proposed amendment to the State Constitution. The process would take longer, because amendments require approval by two, separately elected legislatures—plus a final vote by the New York electorate.

The earliest it could be put before the voters would be the general election of 1971.

But the device avoids the possibility of a veto by Gov. Rockefeller, who has given at least tacit support to the principle of integration by busing.

The practice was begun after State Education Commissioner James E. Allen issued his 1963 order directing school districts to end what he called racial imbalances in certain schools. To achieve a more even racial spread, he said, pupils should be transported to schools other than those nearest their homes.

White parents complained that this discriminated against their children, but the courts upheld Allen's power to issue such orders.

The proposed amendment would forbid the state and all school districts from considering race, color, religion or national origin in assigning children to schools.

No Other Major Bills

The issue promised to dominate discussion in the legislative halls during a week of otherwise routine activity. The Senate and Assembly calendars listed no other major bills.

In another development over the weekend, Rockefeller submitted a package of three bills designed to improve medical care facilities in the state.

One would provide for low-interest loans to modernize hospitals. A second would enable nursing homes to expand the scope of their services. The third would establish a licensing system for nursing home administrators.

The anti-busing amendment is being offered by Sen. Norman F. Lent, R-Nassau County, with co-sponsorship of Assemblyman Joseph M. Margiotta, the Nassau County Republican chairman.

Volatile on Long Island

The issue has been especially volatile on Long Island, and Lent therefore is counting on strong support from the Assembly's new speaker, Perry B. Duryea Jr., of Suffolk County.

Duryea tried hard in 1966 to force the bill out of the Assembly's Democratic-controlled Rules Committee—but to no avail. In the new Assembly, Duryea heads the Rules Committee.

Storm King Warning by Geologist

NEW YORK (AP) — A geologist - conservationist says it is possible that the proposed Consolidated Edison power plant at Storm King Mountain on the Hudson River might "cross a threshold" and reactivate some earthquake-prone faults in the earth's crust.

Dr. A. Scott Warthin Jr., who teaches at Vassar College and serves as president of the Hudson River Conservation Society, said Saturday the problem arises from a planned upper reservoir designed to hold eight billion gallons of water that will constantly be drawn and repiped into the man-made lake.

Chief Petty Officer Howard Pepper, officer in charge of the Coast Guard light attendant station in Saugerties, swears in William Dwyer Jr. as commander and Mrs. Clara Morris as vice-commander of Auxiliary Flotilla 10-12. Ceremonies took place Saturday night at the Capri 400 Restaurant in Port Ewen as the organization celebrated its fifth anniversary. Chief Pepper said that new buoys would be placed in the Rondout Creek this spring and in the mouth of the Catskill Creek where a number of ships went aground last year. Another guest, Coast Guard District Officer Lt. Kenneth Kaell, commended the flotilla for its activities last year and said that auxiliaries were the Coast Guard's first line of defense. Clark Ede of Kingston was the master of ceremonies. The Change of Watch dinner was attended by some 25 persons. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Wawarsing Gives May 2 Deadline

By DENNIS R. CARO

Vernon Kelder, chairman of the Wawarsing Board of Assessors, has announced that May 2 will be the deadline for filing applications for partial tax exemptions in the coming fiscal year.

Kelder said Town residents who are over 65 years of age and have annual gross incomes that do not exceed $3,000 are eligible for the exemption that includes school taxes as well as those paid to the town, but that even if they have received this exemption in the past they must still submit another application.

If the property is registered in more than one name, Kelder went on, explaining some of the technicalities involved, each of the names must be set forth in the application and all of the owners must qualify for the exemption.

Legal Residence

The property must be the "legal residence" and must be occupied by all the owners, with concurrent vestment of title for at least 60 consecutive months prior to the date of filing the application.

The property must be used exclusively for residential purposes, Kelder said, but the lease or rental of a portion of the premises to others for residential purposes would not disqualify the owner from obtaining the exemption. If the portion used for other than owner-residential purposes is capable of being separately described and assessed on the tax roll, however, the exemption would apply only to the portion used for owner residence.

No exemption may be granted, he continued, if the combined total of all the owners exceeds $3,000, and if an owner is married his spouse's income must be included in the computation; even if the spouse is not actually an owner.

If the owner or any of the owners or the spouse of any

Takes Much Time

Since it may take a considerable length of time to obtain copies of such returns, Kelder said, applications for exemption may be filed pending submission to the assessors of the copy of the return when it is received. Kelder said if any child, including children of tenants of lessees, resides on the property for which an exemption from school taxes is sought, and such child attends public school in the same district in which the property is located, the exemption cannot be granted.

RECREATION PROJECT — The Rev. James P. Veatch (R) pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church and a director of the Rondout Churches Recreation Program for Children of that area of Kingston, is given moment of his talk for the Hurley Lions Club recently by William Millany, club program chairman. The minister told the group of the January reopening of the Rondout Churches Program, held last year. More than 300 Rondout area children took part in the summer program of the group, he said, and noted that winter schedule calls for activities each Saturday morning. One such project took youngsters to the Maria's Brothers Novitiate in West Park and included arts and crafts. (Van Allen photo).

Biafrans Seeking the Jackpot; Recognition by United States

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — After getting a measure of support from France, Biafra is going after the diplomatic jackpot-backing from the United States.

The accession of the Nixon Administration, a sharp increase in private and government relief aid from the United States for refugees and visits by U.S. congressmen have given the Biafrans the idea that the time is ripe for wooing Washington.

The Biafrans were pleased by the visit of the first official U.S. congressional delegation to go to both sides in the Nigerian civil war. The delegation, headed by Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., left Saturday night after a two-day stay.

Earlier Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., visited both Lagos and Biafra. He said he would report to President Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers on his return.

The avowed aim of both visits was to study ways of relieving famine. But the Biafrans are confident the congressmen will report on the political and military situation as well.

For the American visitors, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu and Biafra's other leaders had one main theme: they regard relief as "a palliative at best," and say the United States should re-evaluate its entire policy toward Nigeria and Biafra.

The Biafrans have been vague and at times contradictory in saying what they want from Washington.

Outright Support

Ojukwu has said the United States has "a great potential for peace" in the region and can be a mediator if it acts quickly. But outright support would please most Biafrans more.

Only a few months ago, the Biafrans were condemning the United States almost as strongly as they do Britain, because American recoilless rifles were captured from the Nigerians. Now the Biafran leaders say they are "prepared to believe" that American arms for Nigeria was never a matter of U.S. policy.

Britain has supplied arms to the federal government in great quantity. The Biafrans do not seem to expect important support from diplomatic quarters other than the United States at the present time. They say they have "given up" on the British government, and that there is no hope of the African nations settling the war because "outside powers"—Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States—bear responsibility for the conflict.

The Biafrans say they are immensely grateful to President Charles de Gaulle for describing Biafra as a "reality" and giving them aid. But they say this support has caused other problems. "Now the British government presents itself to its people as the protector of British interests in Nigeria against the French," said one official.

Ticklish Situation

The Biafrans say they realize Washington is in a ticklish situation, with both the Soviet Union and its old ally—Britain—supporting the Nigerian federation from which Biafra proclaimed its independence in July 1967.

But Biafran military men speak openly of their hope of getting arms from America. Government leaders say withdrawal of U.S. backing for British policy would be enough.

The Biafrans believe American public opinion is swinging their way and that President Nixon, after a reappraisal of policy, will find support for Biafra in America's interests.

They are hoping the Nixon Administration—which they consider to be more staunch in its anticommunism than the Johnson Administration—will respond to the Biafran argument that the Soviet Union is becoming firmly entrenched on the federal side and might secure an important foothold in Africa. Moscow has supplied the MTG and Ilyushin jets with which the Nigerians do most of their bombing in Biafra.

Israeli Warplanes Hit Arab Guerrillas

By United Press International

Israeli warplanes raided Arab guerrilla positions in Jordan today in retaliation for a bazooka attack on an Israeli patrol, a military spokesman in Jerusalem announced.

The planes attacked snipers hiding in vegetation along the East Bank of the Jordan River, the spokesman said. He did not reveal how many aircraft had taken part in the raid, nor what weapons they used.

No casualties were reported from the bazooka attack on the Israeli police patrol on the Israel-Jordan cease-fire line along the river south of the Sea of Galilee.

In Cairo, United Nations truce observers said Egyptian troops were digging in along the Suez Canal cease-fire line in preparation for an expected Israeli reprisal attack.

Arab El Fatah commandos in Cairo claimed their guerrillas ambushed and killed a seven-man Israeli army patrol Sunday on the West Bank of the Jordan River, territory Israel occupied after the 1967 Middle East War. Israel denied the report.

In the city of Nablus, on the west bank of the Jordan River, occupied by Israel in the war, eight persons were injured when a grenade exploded in the street Sunday, Israeli sources reported. The grenade supposedly was tossed at an Israeli military

Nixon Augurs Well

The cautious, exploratory, unflamboyant and unspectacular manner in which Richard Nixon has taken over the reins of the presidency augurs well for the future. Lacking the popularity and influence on Capitol Hill with which Lyndon Johnson began his first term, Nixon's first task is to convince a Congress controlled by the opposition party that he is not going to be a chief executive who pushes or pulls that reluctant body along certain legislative roads he has mapped out, but rather one who will work with them quietly and responsibly in surveying the landscape of national needs and laying out the paths that should be taken. In other words, Nixon is not going to be a "personality" president. He does not have that old "charisma," and at this point in history it may be a good thing that he does not. At least, it is a welcome change. President Johnson began in a burst of legislative glory, proposing and signing more far-reaching social legislation than had been seen since the heyday of the New Deal. The nation, mourning the slain John Kennedy, was in a mood to erect monuments to him by righting many old wrongs and attending to many neglected needs. President Nixon has as yet sent no major requests to Congress, but already there is good indication that his administration may be remembered as having dealt, in its own unspectacular way, with certain issues as fundamental as any embodied in the New Frontiers or Great Society. The nation is now in a different mood, and the time is ripe, or ripening, for a number of things. We may at long last, see basic tax law reform. Whatever is done will be imperfect, displeasing as many as it pleases. But the driving philosophy behind it, one which the administration shares, is the realization of the need for justice and fairness for Americans at all income levels. Nixon is committed to the end of the draft and an all-volunteer army. Whether his plan is practical and whether he can get it through Congress is questionable, but at least the system as it is will be up for an overdue re-examination. The same can be said of reform of the Electoral College and the Post Office. Nixon favors a modified electoral system which will more closely reflect the popular vote; many in Congress want it abolished altogether. But here again it is not a matter of opposing philosophies but of different approaches. As for the Post Office, the President has already upset many in his own party by announcing that he intends to take away one of the traditional spoils of the victor by placing the appointment of local postmasters on the basis of competitive examinations. National defense, particularly the question of an antiballistic missile system is another area in which the Nixon administration is making not agonizing but sober reappraisals. And reappraisal of the entire "military-industrial complex" which so many Americans fear and distrust. In foreign relations, too, the impression is one of cautious, continuing re-evaluation of old concepts. We are only in the second month of what promises to be a highly interesting and significant, four years.

Drew Pearson Says

The Threat in Laos of Another Involvement

Jack Anderson says: Laos could become another Vietnam for U.S.; Nixon assures USSR his trip not aimed at sabotaging Soviet; HHH lets LBJ know who's in charge. WASHINGTON—The State Department can be expected to insure a diplomatic denial, but the United States has a secret understanding with Laos that American airpower will be available in case communist forces attempt to take over the country. Although there is no commitment to send in troops, the use of American planes could get the U.S. involved in another limited war after the Vietnam war is settled. With this danger in mind, the American negotiators in Paris have been instructed to seek a settlement that will guarantee the continued neutrality of Laos. This is already supposed to be guaranteed under the 1962 Geneva accords, but President Nixon wants some assurance that a Vietnam peace won't be followed by a renewal of the fighting in Laos. North Vietnam has an estimated 40,000 troops in Laos, supporting the military effort of the communist Pathet Lao. A Vietnam settlement would free several

North Vietnamese divisions to swarm into Laos unless in a future Paris agreement. If Laos is threatened, Premier Souvanna Phouma can be expected to call for American planes to support the government forces. The U.S. has promised limited assistance, in such a contingency, in return for Laotian cooperation during the Vietnam fighting. Secret permission was obtained for U.S. planes, intelligence teams and special forces to operate inside Laos in order to hamper North Vietnamese infiltration down the Ho Chi Minh trails. Americans also worked with the mountain tribesmen in Laos. The question haunting President Nixon is whether Laos could be turned into another Vietnam. No Challenge Intended President Nixon has taken pains to assure the Russians that his visit to NATO countries later this month and his move to strengthen the NATO alliance should not be taken as a threat to the Soviet sphere. The President has made it clear, through private messages, that he has no Soviet influence within the communist bloc or of adopting an aggressive policy in Central Europe. In the private exchanges, the Soviets have sought negotiations on arms control and eventual disarmament, whereas Nixon would prefer to explore ways to ease political tensions. He is particularly eager to reach an understanding on the Middle East before it erupts into another war. He has suggested parallel negotiations on both military and political questions. Nixon earnestly sought to present a bipartisan front to the Russians, incidentally, by bringing his Democratic rival, Hubert Humphrey, into the negotiations. Nixon told Humphrey that if he would accept the U.N. ambassadorship he would be involved in all discussions with the Russians. The President also offered to give Humphrey veto power over the appointment of all Democrats in his administration. Nixon said he fully understood that Humphrey, as titular head of the Democratic party, would be expected to make political appearances and might even wish to run again for President in 1972. Nixon wouldn't consider any such political activity, he said, to be incompatible with Humphrey's role as U.N. Ambassador. Although Humphrey felt the offer was magnanimous, he couldn't accept. Senate Foreign Relations Chairman William Fulbright has given a Democratic endorsement, however, to Nixon's efforts to find an accommodation with the Russians. Note: President Nixon was so anxious to get Humphrey as U.N. ambassador that he not only made the offer in person but appealed also to Humphrey's close friend and chief fund raiser, Dwayne Andreas. Nixon also asked several intermediaries, including Florida Sen. George Smathers and ex-Gov. Tom Dewey, to plead with Humphrey to accept the position. Settling LBJ Straight In a private showdown with his former chief, Hubert Humphrey has made it clear that he isn't going to let Lyndon Johnson run the Democratic party from the LBJ ranch. The former President gave his private assurance after the election that he recognized Humphrey as the party leader and would not interfere. But there was one condition. "You're the boss. You can run the party," LBJ told HHH, in effect, "unless you're going to turn it over to the Kennedys." First off, Johnson wanted to get rid of Larry O'Brien as party chairman. When O'Brien resigned from the Cabinet to campaign for Robert Kennedy, Johnson considered it the ultimate act of disloyalty and concluded that O'Brien had been secretly conspiring with the Kennedys all along. Humphrey, however, decided to keep O'Brien, who had intended to remain in the chairmanship but got such an attractive offer the last minute that he couldn't turn it down. He left politics to become president of Mac Donald & Company, a financial consulting firm in New York. LBJ favored Terry Sanford, the former North Carolina governor, as O'Brien's successor. But Humphrey selected Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, a close friend of the Kennedys, whom LBJ distrusts. Sore as blazes, Johnson chewed out Humphrey for appointing Harris. Humphrey took the bawling out with the respect due the then-President, but the appointment stood. The message was clear: HHH is now running the Democratic party.

Whatever Became of Buffalo Bob?

BERRY'S WORLD

We shot pool on the patio. Robert E. Smith turned out to be a hustler. Anyone who trims me is a hustler. In addition, he looked young and vibrant. You may recall Mr. Smith as Buffalo Bob on the Howdy Doody Show. He has been gone a long time. Mr. Smith was born on Chester Street in Buffalo, N. Y. His father, Emil Schmidt, was a carpenter and a tobaccoist. He died in 1930 at the age of 50. There were two older brothers and a sister, but Bob, at the age of 15, remained with his mother and worked the tobacco shop. Every man has a crossroads in his career. For Bob, it was news that a local organization called the Simon Brewery would sponsor a radio program. It was called the Simon Supper Club of the Air. Bob Smith drew a musical group together—he had studied piano—and called it The Hi Hatters Trio. They did pretty well in 1934, until a stout singer named Kate Smith summoned them to New York for $1,000 on the Hudson-Terraplane Hour. Smith began to see great things in the field of radio. He went back to Buffalo and worked as staff pianist for WBBN. He developed naive tricks, such as pretending to ask Dinah Shore to sing Buttons and Bows. Bob sang the song, then turned on a recording and Miss Shore's voice was heard in the same key. Right Man After the war, WEAF in New York hired Bob to do a show from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. Three hours is a long time for solitary singing and talking, but Smith was the right man. He had married Mildred Metz in 1940, and now had a family to support. There was a son named Robin; another called Ronald; and one christened Christopher Mayo Smith. In 1947, Smith thought he was ready for children and they were ready for him. He started a radio show called The Triple B Ranch. On it, he had an unseen character who always greeted Buffalo Bob with a nasal and toothy phrase: "Well, Howdy Doody!" Little ones began to call the show "Howdy Doody."

It became so popular that Bob Smith tried the show on NBC-TV. He called it the Puppet Playhouse because he planned to use puppets, even though he was not a good ventriloquist. At first, Smith was afraid of the character Howdy Doody and pretended to keep him in the bottom drawer of a desk. Daytime TV As the drawer was opened, a pre-recorded voice came on saying: "Well, Howdy Doody!" Somehow, it convulsed the little ones. In 1948, when Thomas E. Dewey was running for the Presidency against Harry S. Truman, there were 40,000 television sets in the U.S. Howdy Doody ran for President against a mysterious Mr. X, and had campaign buttons manufactured. More than 80,000 requests were received. This occurred at a time when, in the daylight hours, most television stations showed nothing but test patterns. By 1950, Smith felt that the show was close to the falling off point and he sold it to NBC for $500,000. He agreed to continue working Monday through Friday for $1,500 a week. Smith was right. The show began to sag in 1951, and NBC tried to chop his salary. He quit. Bob Smith, who is a whole-some Frank Merriwell, bought a liquor store in New Rochelle, N. Y. For 13 years, he wasn't seen anywhere. In 1964, he and Mrs. Smith went to Washington County, in Maine, fishing for small-mouth bass. They enjoyed themselves so much that Bob bought radio station WQDY for $115,000. Now he was a business man. He was earning more money than ever, and he bought WHOU, a station in Houlton, Maine. This was followed with the purchase of a third station called WMKR. He was young and retired. A year ago, an author named Richard Lamparski wrote a book called "Whatever Became Of..." He interviewed Buffalo Bob and asked why he wasn't on television. The reason, Smith said, was that all his little boys and girls were now grown. They were big teenagers or young married couples. Older Audience Jack Philbin, producer of the Jackie Gleason Show, read the book and wondered why Buffalo Bob couldn't get back on television, doing a show for a slightly older audience. He thought of all the old characters: Flub-a-Dub; Princess Summer-Fall-Winter-Spring; Dilly Dally and Phineas T. Bluster. Philbin and his press relations counsel, Hank Meyer, got in touch with Bob Smith and worked out a new show which will be seen on t.v. this fall. My daughter Karen watched us shoot pool and engage in small conversation. "The children's shows today," Smith said, missing a hanger, "are not funny. They're horrifying." Karen said it more succinctly: "They're not to be laughed at," she said.

Violated Pact Violating the Potsdam Agreement only three months after it was signed, the Kremlin has constantly built the so-called National People's Army. About 93 percent of its officers today are Communist party members. It comprises more than 1.4 million men—200,000 permanent; 320,000 active reservists; 320,000 in the special "Kampfgruppen," or "battle groups," of the Communist party, and paramilitary force of armed workers; and 450,000 more in youth leagues. The German commander has been made a Soviet citizen, with a Soviet general's rank, as controlled themselves. About 700,000 of West Berlin's population have relatives in East Berlin. There are 1.1 million residents. In German "standesgemass" means "in accord with status." The East Berliners have nothing, and they have no true status. The first wall, an electrically charged barbed-wire barricade 95 miles long, circles the city. The 1961 wall, which divides the city, runs a solid 10 miles. About 70,000 East German workers are diverted to keep the two walls constantly under repair. In addition, the manpower of 50,000 East Berlin police, a guard which alone is the about twice the size of the entire New York City police force for eight million people, is needed to guard and patrol the wall. The Soviet troops are commanded by a four-star general from an immense (former Nazi) headquarters at Wurmsdorf, 30 miles from Potsdam, East Germany. So is the Soviet Air Force. Soviet officer defections in East Germany are rare. But in the ranks, where Soviet Communist party membership runs less than 10 percent and with a communist lieutenant being paid 100 times as much as an ordinary Red Army soldier, an average 3,000 Russian soldiers are defecting to the West each year.

Those in charge of our intelligence in Berlin tell me there are an incredible 12,000 Iron Curtain agents in West Berlin alone. They practice the technique call "uberschweimmung," or inundation. If one Red agent is caught or disappears the Kremlin replaces him with four or five more. The East German government facade—constructed to confuse us—is sheer nonsense.

Timely Quotes

R.O.T.C. is like singing in the Whiffenpoofs—a perfectly fine activity, but one we don't think merits any academic standing. —Dr. Arthur W. If I have any blood left, it'll be a miracle. —Mayor John Lindsay, taking time out from New York's school and welfare crises to give blood at a blood donor clinic. The penal law is the chas-

Denzer, head of a commission that proposed changes in New York's code of criminal procedure. All of Eastern Europe is filled with the urge for freedom—for new forms of life... The movement to freedom in these countries today is inevitable and vital. —Milovan Djilas, former president of Yugoslavia.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago Feb. 17, 1949—The city was reassured by statements that the Broadway crossover elimination project was a reality and that properties in the area would soon be acquired. Clarence L. Dumm, local high school principal indicated he would submit his resignation to the Board of Education shortly. Feb. 17, 1959—Fire which broke out in a storeroom of an East Chester Street shop destroyed valuable stocks and caused considerable damage to the building kept firemen active this day. The Army Corps of Engineers presented a flood control plan to the village and town of Rosendale that included the relocation of Main Street.

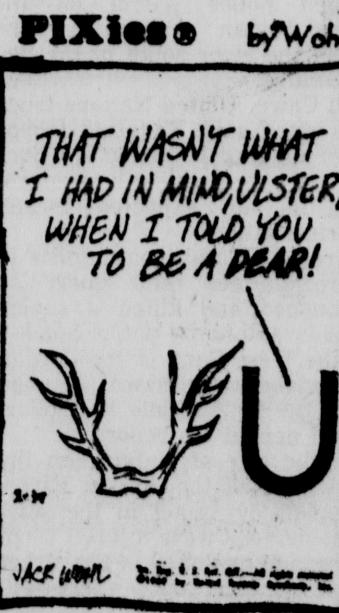

East Germany Is Occupied Country The East Germany that is making noises about West Berlin, and may try to make trouble for President Richard M. Nixon when he gets there on February 27, is not a satellite country. It is an occupied country. The voice—and all actions—are totally Moscow's. There is a uniformed Soviet commandant and his administrative staff on duty in every East German center and in more than 100 communities right down to the grass roots. More than 300,000 Russian troops are stationed in East Germany. These comprise 14 fully mechanized divisions with their platoons of tanks. Since the Soviet reconquest of Czechoslovakia, which was, behind the scenes, really a redeployment of the Soviet forces in Western Europe, these 300,000 are likewise supported by the Soviet divisions in Czechoslovakia. It is the Kremlin's westernmost force, its vanguard standing 93 miles from the Rhine. About 42,500 Russian Army soldiers ring Berlin. This involves the matter of the walls—for, perhaps unrealized by us, there are two, not one. No Status The Berlin area (East and West) is so immense that Frankfurt, Stuttgart, and Munich combined would fit into it. East Berlin alone covers 153 square miles. "Insulaner" (islander) is the West Berliners' name for themselves. About 700,000 of West Berlin's population have relatives in East Berlin. There are 1.1 million residents. In German "standesgemass" means "in accord with status." Uncle Sam's Annual Message: Time for Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans finally are back on another meeting the tax surcharge face. Thus, most taxpayers wading to face as they fill out their Form 1040 tax return find that they figure their regular tax as in years past and then simply add 7½ per cent.

Considering the high drama and political infighting that surrounded its enactment, the surcharge when tracked to its lair lined little brother, 1040A, will be a shy little thing. Stuck off on the surcharge figured for a line by itself, it's nothing in an accompanying table.

Why 7½ per cent when all the news stories have labeled it a 10 per cent surcharge? Because it was applicable to only three-quarters of 1968, April through December, and 7½ is three-quarters of 10.

Tables Available
The Internal Revenue Service provides tables with the tax returns that tell how much surcharge should be paid when the regular tax is less than $734. If your regular tax is $734 and over you have to do your own arithmetic, but it's a simple one-shot multiplication problem. Other than the surcharge, the annual chore of getting your tax computed and paid before the April 15 deadline has changed hardly at all.

To be sure, the form most 1040 users received in the mail looks snappier this year because it's red, white and blue, but the form itself is basically unchanged.

The idea behind the color printing is to highlight those parts of the form where the most errors are made. The signature line is played up, for instance, because millions of Americans sweat over their returns every year and then send them in unsigned.

Others goof by forgetting to attach their W2 forms or to include their Social Security numbers.

Accompanying the forms sent in the mail are several pages of directions from IRS. These will steer you through most of the tricky places but if you need fuller explanations a good buy is the 160-page IRS booklet "Your Federal Income Tax," 60 cents at most IRS offices.

Also helpful are the commercial do-it-yourself guides which are more explicit than the IRS booklet in pointing out money-saving ideas.

All Don't File

Not everybody has to file a tax return but those who are exempt are a small minority.

If you were under 65 last year, you must file if you had gross income of $600 or more. If 65 or over, you have to file only if your gross income topped $1,200. But those with at least $400 net earnings from self-employment must file and pay the self-employment tax.

U.S. citizens living abroad are subject to the same rules, except that their filing deadline is June 15 instead of April 15.

Vietnam is something else again. Servicemen and civilians in war-support roles—even newsmen—don't have to file until 180 days after they leave Vietnam.

Now to get it all down on paper. There are two forms, 1040 and 1040A, and many taxpayers may use either one.

Form 1040, the longer of the two, is designed to be used by anyone, from mechanics to millionaires. But 1040A, the little form that packs all its questions onto a card a little bigger than a cereal box, is only for certain taxpayers.

You may use 1040A if your total income was less than $10,000 and consisted entirely of wages subject to withholding tax and a maximum of $200 in other wages, dividends and interest.

Those who are eligible to use either form should file the longer one if by doing so they'll save money.

This, by the way, is the way IRS wants it. The tax people stress the fact that you should avail yourself of every legal means of holding down the amount of tax you pay.

Generally speaking, filling out 1040 instead of 1040A is worth the additional work if you own a home, carry a substantial debt load, have above average child care or medical expenses, or

Such outlays are deductible. In other words, they can be subtracted in whole or in part from your income as reported for tax purposes, thus lessening the amount of it that will be taxable.

Standard Deductions
If you find it all too confusing or have too few deductions to expect much of a payoff from listing them, use one or the other of the standard deductions:

—A simple 10 per cent of the adjusted gross income figure you've entered on your form, or —The "minimum standard deduction." In the case of married persons filing joint returns or unmarried persons, this is figured as $200 plus $100 for each exemption count one exemption apiece for yourself and every person you can claim as a dependent, plus one apiece if you're blind or were 65 at least one day last year.

Here again, you get a chance to play something either of two ways. Don't just toss a coin. Do the arithmetic for both and use the one that results in the greater saving.

Example: A couple with two children and an adjusted gross income of $8,000 would have an $800 deduction if they take the 10 per cent deduction.

And they'd better, because if they settled for the minimum standard deduction—$200 plus four times $100—it would come to only $600.

Remember, though, either standard deduction is limited to $1,000—or $500 if you are married and file a separate return.

Once you've reached this point in filling out your form you've got most of the heavy work behind you. But don't be in too great a hurry to finish and get the thing in the mail. If time permits, let your completed form sit around the house for a few days and then go over of mind in succeeding months it again line by line, and years to be able to refer to the exact figures you turned in

And before you seal the envelope, make a spare copy of your Uncle Sam.

Carnegie Course - Must Know Goals

There is an interesting story of the old sage who lived on the side of a mountain near a lake. It was common practice for the people of the village below to come to him for counseling and advice. The wise old man spent many hours sitting out in front of his small cabin where he rocked to and fro in a crude little rocking chair made of the branches of the surrounding trees. Hour after hour he sat and rocked as he reflected.

One day he noticed a young lad walking up the path past the lake toward his cabin. The boy walked up the hill and stood erect before the sage. The old man said, "What can I do for you young man?"

The boy replied, "I am told by the people in the village that you are very wise. They say that you can give me the secret of happiness and success in life."

The old sage listened intently and then cast his gaze at the ground for several moments. He silently rocked to and fro. Not a sound was heard except the creaking of the crude rocking chair. Then, the sage rose to his feet, took the boy by the hand and led him down the path toward the lake. Not a word was spoken. The boy was bewildered, but the old man kept walking. They came to the edge of the lake but did not stop. Out into the water the old man led the boy. The water came to the boy's knees, to his waist, then to his chin, but the old sage kept walking. The lad was completely submerged in the water. The sage stopped for a moment, turned the boy around and led him out of the lake and up the path to the cabin. Still not a word was spoken. The wise old man sat again in his creaky chair and silently rocked to and fro. After several moments he looked into the boy's questioning eyes and asked, "Young man, when you were out in that lake, under we will diligently follow his plan, step by step, every day. When our goals and our plans become a living picture of reality in our minds, a picture that will motivate us to determined action, only then can we expect to find the happiness and success to fulfill our dreams. As the poet so aptly wrote:

I bargained with Life for a penny and Life would pay no more.
However I begged at evening
When I counted my scanty store.
For life is a just employer,
He gives you what you ask,
But once you have set the wages,
Why you must bear the task.
I work for a menial's hire,
only to learn, dismayed,
That any wage I had asked
of Life would have willingly paid.

Firemen Slate Annual Dinner February 22

WOODSTOCK The annual dinner of Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 has been scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 22 at Bearsview Lodge Hall. There will be a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner at 7:30.

Arrangements were announced at the recent meeting of the volunteers by Alan Van Wagnen. Prime ribs of beef will be served.

Members of the four fire companies in the township district are invited to the dinner and tickets are available from Ernest Koehn, and may be purchased at the door.

Chief Duncan Wilson reported that there were seven calls during January and that 82 attended the firemanic course on arson. There were representatives from 11 fire districts in the county.

William Harder gave a report on the truck committee's activity.

Township Notes

WOODSTOCK Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Tomaselli were honored recently when Father Maurice Walsh, pastor of St. John's parish, which includes St. Joan of Arc in Woodstock, and St. Augustine's in West Shokan, celebrated First Friday Mass in their home. This was the first Mass in the home of a Woodstocker and the Tomaselli's were delighted when almost 40 people attended the Mass. It was the beginning of what Father Walsh hopes will be many Masses in homes in this area. Father Walsh has already celebrated Masses in homes in West Hurley and West Shokan.

Senior Citizens

Woodstock Senior Citizens meet Thursday 1:30 p.m. in the Dutch Reformed Fellowship Hall. In the event of cancellation, members will be notified. The program will include games and awards. Members are asked to bring Valentines. Guests are welcome, according to Hans Martinson, president. Further information is available by calling Mrs. Mary Busch, secretary.

Nixon Suffers First Defeat; Willie Mae Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After four days and one news conference, Willie Mae Rogers became the first casualty of the Nixon administration.

The one-time high school teacher quit her job as President Nixon's consultant on consumer affairs Saturday in the middle of a bubbling conflict-of-interest controversy over her connections with the Good Housekeeping Institute.

Nixon apparently tried, and failed, to get the peppery Miss Rogers to quit her job as director of the institute and come on the federal payroll. It was Miss Rogers' job as custodian of the Good Housekeeping Seal—handed out to Church, Walden will be guest products advertised in the Good Housekeeping Magazine—that raised the conflict of interest question.

Members of Congress and some newspaper editorialists had asked how she could do an effective job, even though unpaid, as Nixon's consumer aide while she still was drawing a paycheck from the magazine. Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N. Y., said the arrangement represented a "built-in conflict of interest."

But it may have been Miss Rogers' encounter with a news conference, the day after her appointment last week, that was her undoing. She sometimes appeared cavalier. She refused to say how much money she made at Good Housekeeping and shrugged off the conflict-of-interest question with:

"You have to accept the fact that I am basically honest."

In announcing Miss Rogers' decision to quit, Nixon defended her "personal integrity and unparallelled personal experience." He also expressed regret that her integrity, and that of the institute, "have come under unwarranted criticism."

Lenten Series

A series of Lenten services will start at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, 22 Livingston Street, Tuesday 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Paul G. Behling, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Walden will be guest speaker for the first in the series.

3rd Grade Class Offers Operetta

SAUGERTIES Sparky, a short operetta, was presented at Grant D. Morse School by the third grade class of Mrs. Carolyn Van Gaasbeck last week. This operetta depicted a young boy who had difficulty choosing the instrument he wanted to learn to play.

The main cast of characters included Sparky, Daniel Lee; Mother, Dawn Leighton; Jimmy, Gary Wiltbank; Paul, Kevin Finger; Narrators, Lorraine Gilbertson, Lori Hart, Diane O'Connor, Salvatore Puma and Patrick Thorne.

Three songs were sung by the children portraying the violins, clarinets and trumpets from Orchestralville, and the complete cast joined in singing the final selection, "He'll Be A Gay Musician."

Serving as accompanist was Mrs. Karen Wurzel, vocal music teacher.

Class Receives Message From President Nixon

SAUGERTIES The class composed the letter — it was a first grade class at the Grant D. Morse School. One of the pupils copied it in her best manuscript — she was Mary Stevens. The teacher and principal signed it — they were Hilda Galletta and Patrick Buonfiglio. The class mailed the letter on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

Direct from the White House and President Richard M. Nixon, came the reply on Feb. 7. "As I undertake the responsibility of providing new leadership for America in the years ahead, I want you to know how grateful I am for your thoughtful message. The knowledge of your support will be a source of strength and inspiration in the years ahead, Richard Nixon."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderately active trading.

Investors were expected to derive some encouragement from the domestic news background, which included the third consecutive record monthly rise in industrial output in January, and the U.S. balance of payment surplus for the fourth quarter of 1968, the largest for any quarter since 1950. The first slowup in steel ordering last week since October may limit demand, although steel men believe the lag may be only temporary.

UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.13 per cent on 345 issues traded. There were 149 advances and 116 declines.

SAUGERTIES
George B. Ohley, 79, formerly of 144 Market Street, Saugerties died Sunday after a lengthy illness.

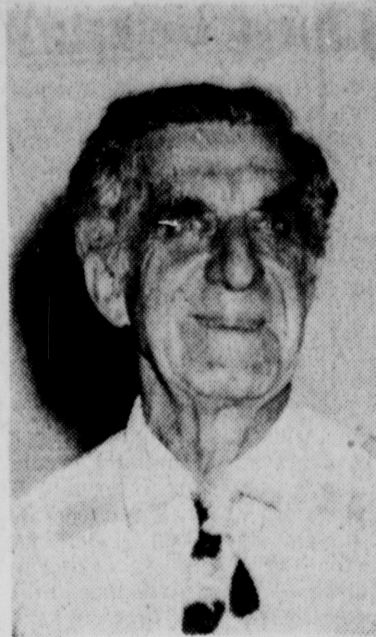

He was a life-long resident of Saugerties, born Aug. 18, 1889, a son of the late Henry and Mary Weikert Ohley. He was retired canvas maker and operated his own business in the village.

An active and prominent volunteer fireman, at the time of his death he was honorary director of Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association and had been a director for more than 20 years. He is also a member of New York State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Lynch Fire Co., was elected president of the County Vols. in July 1962 and according to fireman's tradition the county convention was held in Saugerties in the summer of 1963.

He was the oldest living past president of the Hudson Valley Association. Locally he was also a member of R. A. Snyder Fire Company, and the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Ohley was a member of Dads of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Saugerties. In the Masonic order, he was a 50-year member of Ulster Lodge 193, F&M, a past master and past district deputy of the lodge. He was a former member of Saugerties Village Board and served as town justice of the peace for many years.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Fireman's services will be held Wednesday 7 p.m., and Masonic rites will be conducted at 8 p.m.

Fears Mounting In West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists disputed Western right of access to West Berlin and heightened crisis fears in the isolated city today.

The latest propaganda blast added another dimension to East German and Soviet harassment and threats over use of West Berlin as the site of the West German presidential election March 5.

The official East German party newspaper Neues Deutschland contended the Western Allies do not have treaties allowing them to reach the city, 110 miles inside East Germany. Western officials said that until now the Communists recently have concentrated their campaign against travel to Berlin by West German electoral college delegates. The Neues Deutschland editorial broadened the attack base to include the Western Allies — the United States, Britain and France — who hold power in West Berlin due to World War II agreements.

An East German overland travel ban on delegates was imposed Saturday. But Western officials said it did not affect usual traffic into or out of Berlin over the weekend.

West Germany, with the expressed backing of the United States and Britain, has vowed to hold the election in the isolated city despite the Communist warnings.

President Nixon is to visit West Berlin Feb. 27 on his European trip. That visit, coming just a week before the election, will underline Western determination to maintain the city's freedom, political observers here said.

Reports from Moscow said the Soviets planned military maneuvers to harass Berlin motor traffic and perhaps flights into the city through the west's air corridors, too.

Driver Cited

John W. Kasten, 21, of PO Box 142, Rifton, was cited by Kingston police Sunday for failure to produce a registration certificate, operating a car with a defective muffler and unsafe tires. The summonses are returnable in City Court.

Confrontation Ends

Kills Children Self

BORDEAUX, France (UPI)—A killer who feared he would lose custody of his children and demanded that his wife commit suicide ended a two-week armed confrontation with police today by killing his son and daughter, then fatally shooting himself in a barricaded farmhouse.

Police said Andre Fourquet, 38, shot his children with a rifle, then turned the gun on himself when police moved up half-track armored carriers that bristled with submachine guns.

Three shots rang out as police lobbed tear gas down the chimney of the shuttered white house, then rushed the building. They found Francis Fourquet, 11, bleeding in his bed. Next to him was his sister, Aline, 13, wounded in the head.

Their father was sprawled on the other side of the bedroom, moaning faintly, a bullet wound in his throat. Aline died a few hours later while surgeons tried desperately to save her.

A construction foreman, Fourquet, had vowed to kill the children if police rushed the house. Earlier he had said he would release the children and give up only if his ex-wife came to the house and committed suicide, so she could not take custody of the children.

Education Assn. President Sets 'Teacher Power' Goals

Among the "powers"—black, student, flower—confronting the establishment, the real sleeping giant is "teacher power."

The guiding forces of the nation's largest occupation group view teacher power as much more than bringing a militant, unified stance to the contract bargaining table.

George D. Fischer, who last month assumed the presidency of the million-member National Education Association (NEA), has set as his goal teachers becoming "the most influential group of people in America."

He envisions the day when there will not be an issue facing government that won't prompt elected officials to call on teachers to express their collective views. Naturally, he expects the NEA to be the spokesman.

High School Teacher
Fischer, a dynamic and articulate high school teacher in Des Moines, Iowa, intends during his 18-month term as NEA president to vigorously promote teacher involvement in politics—not only as candidates but as influential members of the party power structure and as platform writers.

He hopes to make the NEA presidency more powerful by directing his own efforts toward private meetings with individuals and small groups in a position to influence policy. This includes the White House, Congress, state governors and the foundations. He said he would devote less time to travel and speech-making.

Fischer moved into the NEA presidency six months early—and thus will serve an extra-long term—because President Nixon last month appointed his predecessor, Mrs. Elizabeth D.

Rocky Suggests Loans For Private Hospitals

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A proposal to make loans available to private hospitals for modernization of outdated facilities is one of three health measures Gov. Rockefeller has announced he is sending to the legislature.

That proposal, requiring a change in the State Constitution, was announced Sunday as the second step in the governor's efforts in that direction.

Rockefeller touched on the Koontz of Salisbury, N.C., director of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor, the highest federal position ever held by a Negro woman.

Chief among the legislative goals Fischer is promoting are more federal aid to education—much more—and a national professional negotiations law. The latter would establish a basis in law for teachers to negotiate salaries and working conditions. It would require local school boards to negotiate with duly elected teacher representatives.

"Blue Laws"

Fischer contends that teachers do not now enjoy the same rights as other citizens. "We can't bargain, we can't strike, we can't get involved in politics," he says, referring to state legislation that bars strikes by public employees and, in many cases, does not require school boards to negotiate. As to involvement in politics, laws vary from locality to locality but some communities still have on the books "blue laws" that bar teachers from voting in school board elections.

"We're going to fight our way out of that bag," Fischer promises.

There were 140 teacher strikes in the nation during the 1967-1968 school year and the NEA has estimated that the total during the current year may reach 300 to 400.

Although he contends the nation's news media unfairly emphasize the teachers' strikes to back salary demands, Fischer insists, "We rarely strike just over wages."

"Lots of times we go out for no other reason than the school boards won't negotiate with us. The days of 'take it or leave it' are over."

"As a last resort—and I emphasize that—we go the strike route. But we'll go it. No doubt about that," Fischer said. The NEA president believes the only reasonable solution to mounting costs of education is for the federal government to pay a one-third share with state and local governments each assuming an additional one-third. Now, the NEA calculates, the national picture is that the federal government pays 7.3 per cent, state governments 40.9 per cent and local school districts the remaining 51.9 per cent.

Potential Danger on Nixon's W. Berlin Visit

President Nixon's Feb. 27 visit to West Berlin is expected to last only about four hours, but they could be four hours of potential danger.

The city already is under tension because of East German and Soviet reprisal threats against plans to name formally there a president of West Germany on March 5.

To add to it, rambunctious leftwing students of Berlin's Free University have promised to demonstrate against Nixon as a "representative of the reactionary American bourgeoisie."

They are of the same violent political stripe as others who last year made former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey a special target for their jeers and insults.

They call themselves Marxists and are opposed to government and the establishment in general but know what they are against better than they know what they are for.

Nixon is not one to duck such a confrontation and has had past experience. In 1958, as vice president, he and Mrs. Nixon ran a jeering, spitting gauntlet of Communist student demonstrators in Caracas, Venezuela.

In Berlin the students have been a nuisance but have received no widespread support even in districts traditionally Communist.

Presumably the dangers to the President were considered

but accepted as an unavoidable part of showing the flag. West Berlin morale depends heavily on the Americans' presence.

The United States maintains a handful of American troops in Berlin, not as a bulwark against '0 nearby Soviet divisions but as a symbol of U.S. determination.

IT'S EASY TO CHARGE IT!

Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it?

But what if everybody in this country were to throw their hands up in despair and say they don't give a hoot.

Indeed, there would be no tomorrow.

But fortunately, Americans have a way of solving their problems.

And that's just what's going to happen in these troubled times. Simply because it's always been an American tradition.

Now, how can you, as one little ole citizen in this big, wide country of ours, be of any help?

Well, take a minute and think about a U.S. Savings Bond.

That's right, a U.S. Savings Bond.

No, it isn't an immediate remedy for all our ills. But it helps.

If everybody were to buy just one $25.00 Savings Bond (cost $18.75), your country would be stronger economically to wipe out some of those scars we've been sporting.

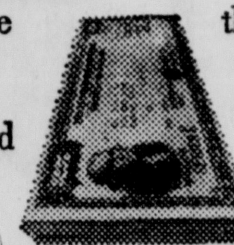

Of course, everybody would be helping themselves, too. If you were to sign up on a Bond purchase plan where you work or bank, you'd have quite a nice nest egg for yourself one of these days.

You'd have a lot more dollars in the kitty for things like college educations, that new home, or a secure retirement.

So think about a U.S. Savings Bond today.

And then go out and buy one.

Tomorrow.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Postal 'Mailmaids' Enjoy Their Work

By SHANE CROSBY

KINGSTON Post Office trucks may just be given the same considerations as any other van on the streets of Kingston, with traffic cutting in and out at rush hours, but for two of the letter trucks a second look can give them more right of way than a hook and ladder heading to a fire.

For the past three weeks one of the red, white and blue vans of the Kingston Post Office has been piloted by a 21-year-old long haired blonde "Mailmaid" who says she may have problems during rush-hour traffic, but "when I stick my head out the van's door, they get out of my way."

The new driver, Mrs. Jean Werner of Woodstock, said she is given more consideration than "most other drivers" on the road as soon as people see who is behind the wheel. On a tight schedule to pick up letters from boxes throughout the city, Mrs. Werner meets up with many drivers who are "not too concerned with the mail truck and don't stop to think it is on a schedule and is working for them."

A New Face

She and her co-worker, Miss Frances Basch, also from Woodstock, form a new fleet for the Post Office trucking fleet that Mrs. Werner said draws surprised looks from people on the street and comments that

"the Post Office is improving." The many letter boxes in the city. "The best time," she said, is when she visits Kingston banks on Friday evenings to pick up sacks of letters. "Older women

Protect Agent, Seek More in Coast Bombings

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—Police today protected an undercover agent and hunted more suspects after arresting nine Nazi-style militants for political sabotage in a series of bombings and terror tactics against left-wing groups.

The nine, held on $12,500 bail each, were to be arraigned today. The undercover agent posed as a Nazi sympathizer for three weeks setting the stage for a raid by 40 policemen late Friday and early Saturday which produced the arrests of nine members of a so-called "Bible study group."

The nine were implicated in at least 31 bombings and other acts of sabotage on the San Francisco Peninsula in the past three months.

Victor Cizancas, Menlo Park chief of police, said the case is "so serious" that undercover agent, officer Armand Lareau, 25, is now in hiding with his wife and baby daughter after infiltrating the group that called itself the "Society of Man." The whereabouts of a second agent instrumental in smashing the ring was being kept secret after his wife received threatening phone calls.

switching to the driving job only about a week ago.

Born in West Palm Beach, Fla., Mrs. Werner said it seems to run in the family to hold curious jobs. Her one sister has worked as a shoeshine girl in Florida, causing a stir among tourists and residents alike. Another sister, a "sort of tomboy," holds a job as a waitress in Florida restaurant.

Mrs. Werner said she came to the Woodstock area about two years ago. Her husband, Dietrich, is a student at the State University College at New Paltz.

The striking blonde also holds a job at a Kingston department store as a saleswoman.

No Problems

The new driver said she does not encounter any problems with the truck, leaving the flats and engine breakdowns to the repair crew for the Central Post Office.

"It's automatic," the Mailmaid added, and said the van is easier than her car. "I passed the tests" and had her Florida driver's license switched to New York. "It was easy."

She said she applied for the Civil Service job before Thanksgiving and was given a choice of three assignments in the Kingston Post Office. Mrs. Werner said she has no qualms about driving a truck. "If I get stuck," she commented, "I was told to just call the Post Office and they would send another truck."

Something New

Mrs. Jean Werner, seated, and Miss Frances Basch, display their friendly smiles as they prepare to begin daily mail pickup. The two pretty drivers are working for the Post Office department out of the Kingston branch. The 21-year-old Mrs. Werner has been on the job for three weeks. Miss Basch began working for the post office several days ago. They have faced a minimum of difficulty in meeting the people of the city. In fact, their feminine charms have added glow to the atmosphere of the department. The Woodstock lassies are enjoying their work and the city's residents seem to be enjoying them. UCCC Slates Enrichment Program

DR. GEORGE A. SCHNELL

STONE RIDGE Dr. George A. Schnell, professor of geography at the State University College at New Paltz, will participate in an enrichment program that Ulster County Community College is offering this spring for high school juniors and seniors. Dean of Faculty Robert J. Markes has announced.

Begins March 8

The Saturday Collegiate Program, entitled "The Numbers' Game — The Nature of Man," is a non-credit seminar that will run eight Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon at the college's Stone Ridge campus. The dates are March 8, 15, 22, 29, April 19, 26, May 10 and 17.

"This seminar will focus on today's mushrooming population growth," said Dean Markes, "and will be a new interdisciplinary educational approach to one of the biggest problems facing the world today."

The dean said UCCC also is planning special programs for the parents of high school students who enroll in the seminar. They will feature films and television tapes on topics of interest, and there will be several informational lectures, including one entitled, "Helping Your Youngster in His or Her Selection of College."

Dr. Schnell, who will be a seminar faculty member, has collaborated with G. J. Denko, of Ohio State, and H. Rose, of the University of Wisconsin, on a book entitled, "Population Geography: A Reader." He also has written several published articles, mostly on population study and demography.

Before coming to the State University College at New Paltz, Dr. Schnell was a lecturer at Pennsylvania State University and was a visiting professor at the University of Hawaii.

On Computer Project

He currently is working on a computer mapping project with a professor at Pennsylvania State University, and in 1964-65 he served as a consultant to Community Action Programming, a private planning firm. He is a member of the Editorial Board of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science and belongs to the Association of American Geographers, the National Council for Geographic Education and the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. Schnell received his Ph.D. Degree from Pennsylvania State University where he majored in Geography, and in the summer of 1965 he was a National Science Foundation fellow at Ohio State University.

Rudolph-Staccio Nuptials Announced

Miss Sharon Bonita Rudolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Rudolph of 68 Allen Street, Saugerties, exchanged nuptial vows with John Francis Staccio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Staccio, on Saturday, Feb. 8, at St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. John F. Hamilton celebrated the Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Charles Dickman, organist, accompanied Mrs. John Nali who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of valaria and white gladioli decorated the altar and a floral bouquet was presented at the Blessed Virgin's altar.

Given in marriage by her Godfather Philip Sweeney, the bride wore an empire styled gown of imported lace. A lace mantilla served as her headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Maureen Sasso of Glasco was honor attendant. She wore a tangerine crepe gown fashioned with an empire waistline and carried a basket of pompons in apricot color, accented with coral and ivy.

Mrs. Phyllis Nagy, sister of the bridegroom, and Susan Sergio, both of Kingston, were attendants. Their peach crepe gowns were fashioned similarly to that of the honor attendant and they carried baskets of pompons and ivy with peach and apricot accents.

Charles P. Staccio of St. Remy was best man for his brother. Ushers were George Nagy, brother-in-law of the bride, and Thomas Shaffer of Pottsville, Pa.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School, was employed by Dr. Sidney Penka, Walnut Grove, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to

MRS. JOHN F. STACCIO (Lakeside Studio)

Wichita Falls, Tex., the bride's husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, attended Ulster County Community College, and has enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. He is stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas. The couple will reside at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Want a delicious sandwich spread?

Have any stale, dried cheese? Get the food grinder out, and grind the cheese with a few hunks of raw onion. Mayonnaise can be added but not necessary. Got a food grinder? Dee-lishus!

Dear Sally:

Another thing I do is to grind processed cheese with a generous amount of pimiento, then put a little mayonnaise in it to moisten the mixture. Sometimes I add a little bit of pickle relish to it, too. Golly, this food talk is making me hungry—bye, now, I'm going to go out to the kitchen and fix a sandwich!

Dear Heloise:

I carry a pad and pencil in my pocket, and as I am cleaning, I jot down areas which should have the soap and water or spot removal treatment before they build up too big a cleaning problem. Then when I'm in the mood, I do it all at once.

Hallie Barnes
Copyright, 1969, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Heloise:

Thanks for the suggestion about cleaning out the kitchen drawer and storing all the unused gadgets in the back closet. I did just that. However, within a month most of the things turned up in the drawer again. This time when I dumped the contents on the kitchen table, I put a divider in the drawer parallel to the front of the drawer.

In the front section, which is only about one-third of the drawer, I placed only those things I use every day.

In the back section I put the things I use frequently.

The things I use seasonally remain in the back closet.

Now when I open the drawer, I open it just to the divider and I can quickly select what I want from the few objects there.

The back of the drawer stays neat, and the complete "clean-out" job is very simple.

Dear Heloise:

For ladies who have rough kitchen shears...

Take them to a barber supply house where a first-class grinder is employed. The scissors can be polished and ground and this will remove the rust.

After this is done, you should always spread salad oil over the cutting edges and blades every time they are used...then dry them.

Household, barber, and tailor shears should be treated with sewing machine oil. I use 10 to 12 drops on the blades along the cutting edges and then wipe off with facial tissue. The oil makes them cut smoother, wear longer, and prevents rust.

Edward H. Stevens

Dear Heloise:

Please remind "chapeaux" lovers that old lampshades (the small ones) make excellent hat stands in the closet.

They can be covered with adhesive-backed plastic or painted to blend with any color scheme if desired.

Look Here Homemaker

There are so many types of finishes on wood furniture today, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist, that it is difficult to know how to repair scratches. If possible, it is wise to obtain directions from the manufacturer. Before repairing scratches on furniture, it is important to know the type of finish.

On Woods with Natural Finish: Use the cleanser-conditioner to clean and blend the color of the scratched area with the natural finish.

Cleaner-Conditioner: 1 part gum turpentine (pure spirits of), 3 parts commercial boiled linseed oil. Shake this mixture well in a glass container with tight-fitting lid and pour it over warm water to use. Dip soft, lint free cloth into warm oil, squeeze out excess and rub with the grain.

On Oil Finish: Use 3/4 steel wool patted in light-weight mineral oil, boiled linseed oil, or paraffin oil. Rub with grain. Wipe the surface with a cloth slightly moistened with oil, then with a dry cloth.

On Varnish Finish: Use gum turpentine or soften the varnish and cover the scratch. A commercial scratch remover may also work.

To Color Scratch, several methods could be used. One could use:

1. Colors-in-oil thinned with turpentine.

2. A varnish stain, ready mixed in wood colors.

3. A clear varnish with stain added.

4. A clear varnish tinted with colors-in-oil.

5. A commercial scratch remover.

The last step is to reapply the type of finish that is on the furniture. Do this with a very small brush, working diagonally along the scratch and feathering it out towards the edges. When it is thoroughly dry, rub varnish or shellac finishes with pumice and oil, and lacquered surfaces with rottenstone oil.

Brazilian Designer Shows Spring Styles

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Ektor, a Brazilian designer who has moved to Paris after operating fashion salons in Rio de Janeiro and Rome, showed his spring and summer collection today.

Brazilian folklore was one of the main themes. One-shouldered tunics are made of striking native prints and have long fringes. They are worn with pants.

All through the collection Ektor featured a halo beret, in straw, in fabric, in pheasant feathers and in floral lace for the bride.

The tunic in infinite variations and fabrics runs all the way through. He likes white best for daytime and starting off with white wooler ensembles shows tunics with pants and topcoats. Slashed side vents, welted seams, fine workmanship and impeccable tailoring typify this group.

Certain evening dresses are treated to ponchos or ponchos. Some are one shouldered, baring the other. There are two coats of uncured ostrich, in black.

Long pants and jeweled or embroidered vests are still the evening fashion scene. Satin, crepe, velvet or seined pants with vests of brocade should be at the top of any party-goer's list.

Sex is treated with discretion, variations. She shows kilt pants, Bared midriffs and pure lines fully pleated and ankle length, can be just as suggestive.

Jeanne. Lanvin's collection draws applause for her great variety in ideas, colorful treatments, and embroideries and white duck or wool.

Sex steps frankly forth for evening. Gold beaded boleros or six inches above the knees, effects increased by an ultra-short bubbled skirt.

She concentrates, however, on large-sized coins in gold metal pants, introducing a number of al.

LAST LESSON—A student pilot died in the wreckage of this small light plane Sunday after a mid-air collision with another small plane also flown by another student pilot, who died from injuries in the crash. Cause of the mishap is unknown. It happened about 30 miles west of Ottawa. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Foil Hijack; Man Arrested After Struggle

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—Authorities today held a man who tried to hijack a U.S. airliner with 97 persons aboard and divert it to Cuba Sunday.

The man, identified as Salvatore Sperduto, who said he was an American, was seized by Bermuda police after the plane made an emergency landing at Hamilton.

The craft, Eastern Flight 945, had developed radio trouble over the Atlantic on a nonstop flight from Boston to San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Stewardess Carol McGrath went to the cockpit and told the pilot, Capt. Eugene Garges, who radioed the Hamilton control tower to call police.

Patrol cars sped onto the field not armed. The Eastern spokesman said the plane quickly boarded and Sperduto was accompanied by a woman, who was not identified.

The plane's crew said there was no panic among the 90 passengers. The aircraft was man said. "They dragged him over in Hamilton three hours while mechanics fixed the radio."

Authorities said the man was radioed.

Hoffman Fund Reaches $869
A scholarship fund in memory of the late Michael E. Hoffman, Kingston High School football quarterback, has reached a total of $869, according to Ira M. Shaw, associate superintendent for business management in the City School System.

Hoffman, who was voted the Most Improved Player by the 1968 football team and coaches, Shaw said he had attended North George Washington School, 67 Carolina State University in Wall Street.

Stone Ridge Library Names Two to Posts

STONE RIDGE, N.Y. (AP)—Two trustees were elected at the annual meeting of the Stone Ridge Library Association last week.

Mrs. Paul Sturges and Mrs. Clifford Schoonmaker were named to serve four-year terms.

Financial and activities reports were made, and how to meet the expense of increased services discussed. The library is financed largely by the contributions of its friends.

Circulation and memberships are growing rapidly, Mrs. Dewitt Hasbrouck, head librarian, said; and borrowers make constant use of the record and painting collections as well as the book services. From time to time the library exhibits the work of local artists. A group of paintings by Florence Krum is on display at the present time.

An interesting new development is the historical committee, a voluntary community group that is cataloging and preserving interesting memorabilia under a grant from the Mid-Hudson Libraries. Gifts of old newspaper clippings and photographs or documents pertinent to the area, to add to this collection, would be most welcome, Mrs. Hasbrouck said.

At the trustees' meeting which followed the annual meeting, The Rev. Robert Clementz was elected president.

RECORD BREAKERS—Driver DeSordo Nevio (L) and his brakeman, Frassinelli Adriano, both of Italy, are happy teammates at Lake Placid after learning they broke a world record for two-man bobsleds in heat run at Lake Placid. They paved the Italian team to first and third in the World Bobsled Championships at Lake Placid. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Italian Bobsleds Win World Title

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—Hoevenberg near this northern New York village. They broke the former course record in three of their four heats enroute to compiling a winning margin of almost two seconds.

The 25-year-old Italian driver, with brakeman Adriano Frassinelli huddled behind him, drove the Italy number two sled to a spectacular victory Sunday in the World Two-Man Bobsled Championships at Mount Van place after the first day of competition, fell to fourth in the final standings.

Rounding out the first 10 were Austria two, West Germany two, Great Britain one, Switzerland, the United States two and West Germany one.

Thirteen countries competed in the championships, part of the Kennedy Memorial International Winter Games.

Sunday's competition was halted for several minutes after Japan's No. 2 sled slammed into a retaining wall after crossing the finish line. Driver Nagata Toshitsugu, 23, and brakeman Hasegawa Kazuo, 35, were taken to the hospital with rib fractures and head cuts.

The world four-man bobsled run was furious during the two-day competition—14 of the 21 sleds broke the pre-games record for four heats in a race.

Officials said that Tishitsa had been unconscious in the last part of the run after his sled struck a wall in a curve.

Officials said part of the reason for the times was the lessening of restraints for the start.

Crews formerly were allowed only two sled lengths to launch their craft at the starting line. The weekend competition permitted them to make runs of up to 90 feet to the starting line.

In their second run Saturday, DeSordo and Frassinelli blazed down the course in an eye-opening 1:06.62—only twenty-two hundredths of a second off the course record for the heavier, faster four-man bobsleds.

The crew approached speeds of more than 90 miles an hour in the curves and five-foot-wide straight-aways.

On Sunday, the red Italian sled was timed in consecutive heats at 1:10.98, 1:06.62, 1:06.63 and 1:07.50 for a total cumulative time of 4:31.73.

Driver Gary Sheffield of Lake Placid and brakeman Howard Siler of Hampton, Va., who guided the U.S. number one sled to the lead after the first day of competition, tried to catch up in the closing moments of the race but failed.

KINGSTON

Ulster County Community College scored a routine 101-70 victory over State U. New Paltz in the municipal auditorium, but there was high drama in the last seven seconds.

The score was 99-70, UCCC moved downcourt after a State free throw. Jerry Moss dribbled down the left sideline and every body in the house waited breathlessly for it to happen.

Moss blurred across the center line, topped at the 25-foot after galloping downcourt in mark let it go. It was a beautiful, arching shot that swished through the cords without touching the rim.

A tremendous cheer rocked the auditorium. UCCC had gone over the 100-mark for the 10th time this season!

Moss had his 33 points, UCCC had nailed down its 11th straight home court victory without a loss and extended its all games played record to an impressive 18 wins and four defeats.

Moss beat the clock that doesn't blush in the last minute anymore by just two seconds.

A half minute earlier he seemed to have rimmed the 101st point those eland like strides of his, off the opening tap, but Moss, 11 points.. Gary Kirkwood destined for his fourth "over 30" effort of the season, tied it and then sent UCCC ahead with two fast jumpers, 42. It got to 14-7 when Ulster spurred for eight straight points to open up a 22-7 lead and the Frosh were never again in contention. UCCC doubled

State's output, 52-26 at the half. SIDEBARS: Coach Mike Perry started Charlie Moore, the former ALL-UCAL at

Ontario, as a sentimental gesture. It was his last home appearance. Ditto for Mike Derrenbacher, who had to leave the game at halftime because the scoring with a jump shot of a foot injury... Moore scored finished with 10 points, Ray Lindhorst dunked 14 Rich Gabriel (12) and George Ruffus (11) were other Frosh in double figures.

Coach Lee Roberts ordered a freeze directed by James Renne for a couple minutes before Moss exploded down court for the 101st point. The State memtor frankly admitted "I didn't want to give them 100 points, if I could help it."

The back breaking phase of the 1968-69 scheduled gets underway Wednesday at Farmingdale against Long Island Aggies. Next stop is Saturday at Rockland, then the climactic Mid-Hudson Conference battle Monday at Westchester, probably for all the marbles Region XV tournament Feb. 27-28 at Farmingdale.

Just Like Old Times in NHL

By United Press International
It was like old times in the National Hockey League Sunday night.

Glenn Hall, Gordie Howe and the Montreal Canadiens played familiar roles that resulted in victories for two of hockey's big name players and the defending Stanley Cup champions.

Hall posted his eighth shutout of the season and 81st of his 14-year career to lead the front-running St. Louis Blues of the Western Division to a 6-0 trouncing of the Minnesota North Stars.

Howe notched his 18th career hat trick and goals No. 31, 32 and 33 of the season as Detroit bombed Los Angeles 6-3 while the Canadiens rode Gump Worsley's shutout goaltending to a 4-0 victory over Pittsburgh and a tie for first place with Boston in the Eastern Division.

Hall stopped 26 shots and also recorded the third assist of his career when he passed to Terry Crisp who scored at 9:38 of the third period. Larry Crisp who scored at 9:38 of the third period. Larry Crisp who scored at 9:38 of the third period.

Larry Keenan had two goals for the Blues, while Ab McDonald, Jimmie Roberts and Red Berenson added single scores.

Howe scored two of his goals in the final five minutes of play and Gary Unger added two markers as Detroit continued its bids for a NHL playoff berth against the Kings.

Wayne Connelly, recently acquired from Minnesota, scored his first goal for the Red Wings and his 15th of the season at 11:25 of the opening period.

Ralph Backstrom scored twice to pace the Canadiens past Pittsburgh which surprisingly outshot Montreal 36-35.

Dick Duff scored his 14th goal and Yvan Cournoyer notched his 34th of the season to complete the Canadian scoring.

Larry Jeffrey scored his first goal in 97 games as New York topped Toronto 4-2 to hold on to third place in the East.

Vic Hadfield, Jean Ratelle, and Dave Balon also scored for the Rangers while Jim Dorey and Floyd Smith tallied for the Maple Leafs.

Larry Hale scored two goals and Andre Lacroix one as the Philadelphia gained its first victory in 10 games with a 3-2 conquest of Oakland.

The Flyers built a 3-0 lead but then had to stave off a late

Oakland rally on goals by Ted Hampson and Earl Ingarfield.

In an afternoon game Chicago defeated Boston 5-1 as five Black Hawk players scored.

Bobby Hull, Doug Mohns, Andre Boudrias, Jim Pappin and Howie Young were the Chicago marksmen while Fred Stanfield scored the only Boston goal.

Wurster Speeds To Skate Title

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) —

Richard Wurster of Ballston Spa, N.Y., followed in his brother's footsteps Sunday when he won the senior men's U.S. Open Outdoor Speed Skating Championship.

The 26-year-old Wurster, 1968 U.S. Olympic team member, won the 18-year-old-and-over division in the 225-event at the Highland Racquet and Riding Club. Ten records were set in the meet.

Big Oscar Breaks Cousy's Assist Mark

By United Press International
Even an assist from Oscar Robertson may not be enough to earn Cincinnati a berth in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Robertson, who had eight assists, snapped Bob Cousy's all-time NBA assists record Sunday but it couldn't prevent the Royals from dropping a 125-113 decision to the lowly Phoenix Suns.

The defeat left the Royals 4½ games behind Boston with only 20 games to play in the battle for the fourth and last playoff spot in the NBA's Eastern Division.

Robertson now has 6,955 assists in nine seasons with Cincinnati, breaking Cousy's mark of 6,949 in 13 seasons with the Celtics.

Gail Goodrich paced the Suns with 25 points and Dick Van Arsdale chipped in with 22 as Phoenix won only its third road game and 14th overall in 62 starts.

Tom Van Arsdale led Cincinnati with 23 points and Jerry Lucas added 21.

In other NBA action San Francisco topped Atlanta 113-

106, Seattle beat Detroit 127-119, Milwaukee surprised Los Angeles 106-97, and Philadelphia rolled over Boston 127-102.

Flynn Robinson scored 19 of his 41 points in the third quarter as Milwaukee shocked Los Angeles despite Wilt Chamberlain's 29 points.

Nate Thurmond scored 35 points and Jeff Mullins added 25 as San Francisco led from start to finish to defeat Atlanta for the second time within a week.

Zelmo Beaty led the Hawks with 29 points.

Bob Rule notched 36 points and Len Wilkens tallied 34 to dominate the Seattle attack and lead the SuperSonics past Detroit, which was paced by Walt Bellamy's 31 points.

Indoor Tennis Title to Smith

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Stan Smith has come a long way in a short time in the U.S. amateur tennis rankings. But, like most 22-year-olds, he's impatient.

In his first full competitive year of tennis, after special tutoring from pro Pancho Segura, Smith won the National Junior Championship in 1964.

Now he's ranked No. 3 in the nation, and just itching to get to the top.

"Stan took a long step today toward challenging for the top spot," Donald Dell, the U.S. Davis Cup captain said Sunday after Smith won the U.S. National Indoor Championship. "I think it will be between Smith and (Arthur) Ashe this year."

Smith won handily in the finals over Ismael El Shafiei of the United Arab Republic, 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4. He also teamed with Bob Lutz to take the doubles title over Charlie Pasarell and Ron Holmberg 7-9, 8-6, 6-4.

Ashe, the nation's No. 1 player, missed the tournament because of a sore elbow, and Smith whipped Clark Graebner, who is ranked second, in the semifinals.

Kingston Skiers Capture Section 9 Team Title

HIGHMOUNT combined, best four-man time of 5 minutes, 36.6 seconds to finish nearly 11 seconds ahead of runnerup Liberty High, despite the fact it didn't place a man in the top five.

Best individual time of the day was turned in by Liberty High ace, Dave Zamansky, who was clocked in 1:11.6, a bare tenth of a second ahead of the runnerup Ricky Hodge of Cornwall.

Bart Dutto, who placed seventh in the individual standings, was the first Kingston skier across the line. He was timed in 1:19.9.

The four-man Kingston team and six other fastest finishers will represent Section Nine in the New York State Intersectionals at Gore Mountain, March 7-8-9.

Depth paid off for the Maroons, as Craig Frost was 13th, Frank Barnes 15th and Dick Baltz out of the first 20, but the combined Kingston time was low enough to win the title and dominate the competition which attracted more than 175 skiers in the boys and girls senior and junior divisions.

Third place went to Monticello, followed by Washingtonville, Suffern, Fallsburg, Highland Falls, Ontario, Goshen and Monroe-Woodbury in that order.

Led by Liz McGrath, Ontario Central nipped Kingston for the senior girls team championship in 5 minutes, 48 seconds flat to 6:49.3.

Miss McGrath led the individual girls standings in a 1:15.7 clocking, as three of her teammates placed in the top ten. Frosty Goffredi of Kingston was runnerup in 1:16.1.

Kingston's chances of winning were dimmed when two top performers—Terry Goffredi and Nancy Potter—suffered spills.

Kingston and Ontario received the team championship trophies, while gold, silver and bronze went to the 1-2-3 finishers in the boys and girls individual competition.

Theodore Dunn, Sr. of Goshen Central served as race chairman. The senior 36-gate giant slalom course was set by Dr. C. J. Goffredi of Kingston, a national certified course setter.

Electronic timing was used on the senior course for the first time, recording the runs in minutes, seconds and thousandths of seconds. For purposes of the Section 9 meet the times were rounded out to the tenths of a second.

Roch Cup to Eastern Skiers

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Two Eastern Skiers, one a member of the Canadian national ski team, won the combined awards Sunday at the conclusion of the 23rd annual Roch Cup Races.

The Roch Cup goes to the man and woman with the best combined showing in the downhill and slalom.

Penny Northrup, a 17-year-old from Ellicottville, N.Y., easily won the women's cup by taking the slalom Friday and the downhill Saturday.

Peter Duncan, of Littleton, N.H., but who skies for the Canadians, won the men's cup in spite of a fifth-place finish in the men's slalom Sunday. His victory Saturday in the men's downhill, however, gave him enough points.

Rich Chaffee, of Rutland, Vt., won the men's slalom Sunday by nearly three seconds over Duncan Cullman, Littleton, N.H., who finished second. Chaffee did not rank in the combined as he did not finish Saturday's downhill.

Runners-up for the women's combined title were Julie Walcott, Underhill Center, Vt., and Ann Black of Seattle. Miss Walcott finished second to Miss Northrup in both events.

Dennis McCoy of Bishop, Calif., finished second in the men's combined with a third-place finish Sunday in the slalom.

Lost Weekend For Top Teams

By United Press International

It was a lost weekend for North Carolina, Kentucky, Illinois and Villanova.

These four top collegiate teams, all members of the top ten, were upset and fell further behind the unbeaten Bruins of UCLA, who rolled to their 35th consecutive triumph.

North Carolina was ranked second before dropping a 68-66 decision to South Carolina Friday night. The Tarheels were hurt by a 38-point performance by John Roche. The win boosted South Carolina into a first place deadlock with the Tarheels in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

But Dick Grubar scored 25 points to lead North Carolina to a convincing 107-81 rout of Clemson on Saturday. The Gamecocks of South Carolina kept pace by edging North Carolina State 45-35.

Kentucky lost some of their prestige as one of the nation's best basketball teams by falling to Florida 82-81 Saturday night. The Wildcats, previously ranked fourth, suffered their first loss in the Southeastern Conference and saw their record drop to 17-3. Florida's Boyd Welsh coolly sank two free throws with nine seconds to play to preserve the upset.

Illinois suffered their second straight setback, a 75-70 loss to Michigan State. The Illini, ranked ninth, were beaten by Michigan 92-87 earlier in the week.

Villanova, rated 10th in the country, was drubbed by a powerful Duquesne team 70-59. The Dukes were in command virtually all the way as they rolled to their 16th win in 18 games.

Meanwhile top-ranked UCLA had another easy touch as they rolled past Washington State 83-59. Lew Alcindor dropped in 22 points to lead the Bruin offense.

Ralph Ogden's 16 points paced third-ranked Santa Clara to an easy 72-47 win over San Francisco.

Davidson crushed Furman 103-67 as Mike Maloy scored 23 points. The Wildcats' win completed a perfect 9-0 record in the Southern Conference.

St. John's had to come from behind to beat a rugged Fordham team 51-46, while LaSalle won the big five championship by drubbing St. Joseph 34-67. Purdue stayed atop the Big Ten Conference with a 87-69 win over Wisconsin.

In other games Pistol Pete Maravich scored 54 points to give LSU a 93-81 victory over Auburn as he became the first player to reach 2,000 points in his first two varsity seasons. Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, now has a career total of 2,024 points.

Cal Murphy fired in 42 points to lead Niagara to a 104-78 win over Iona.

In other action Tennessee edged Georgia 57-55, Missouri downed Kansas 56-55, Louisville beat Wichita St. 65-62, Marquette downed DePaul 56-55 and Cincinnati surprised Tulsa 76-63.

Nuclear Pact, Taxes Await 91st Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 91st Congress, refreshed by 10 days off and a hefty pay raise, returned to Capitol Hill today with committee hearings on taxes and the nuclear nonproliferation treaty the major exceptions to another week of light activity.

Although the hearings are the first hard legislative work of the year, Congress is expected to continue for another month or so the slow pace that has marked the session since convening Jan. 3.

Also facing the returning legislators, who got a $12,500 yearly pay boost during their Lincoln's break, are possible controversial matters concerning maintenance and the proposed name change of a House committee.

The House takes up Tuesday a resolution to change the name of its ever-controversial Committee on Un-American Activities.

Critics have announced they will try to abolish the committee as a separate entity and substitute a Judiciary subcommittee on security.

There is no indication their effort will fare better than earlier unsuccessful attempts to abolish or limit the committee.

In the Senate, a fight begins Tuesday on funds for a special committee on hunger and nutrition in the United States. The Rules Committee cut a financing request from $250,000 to $150,000. Chairman George S. McGovern, D-S.D., has said he will take the issue to the floor.

Church Leader Blasts Campus Demonstrators

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP) — A classes are taught and the New York State leader of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has blasted campus demonstrators for attempting to control campus property.

Elder Reid E. Bankhead, president of the Cumorah Mission, said at a conference here Sunday, "There is a move afoot to hoodwink America into believing campus demonstrations and riots in the streets are for human rights. They are not. They are for control of property."

"Why do students go to an administration building to demonstrate? To gain control of college property. They want to control the real estate on which

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN USED WANT ADS REGULARLY

Benjamin Franklin designed many of the devices and vignettes used on the Continental currency notes and printed currency for the colony of New Jersey. He was so busy making paper money that he inserted a Want Ad in the Philadelphia Pennsylvania Gazette in 1736, "The Printer hopes irregular Publication of the Paper will be excused a few times by his Town Readers, on consideration of his being at Burlington with the Press, laboring for the Public Good to make Money more plentiful."

Dear Abby

Can't Keep 'em Away

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an oil delivery man. I also do some furnace repair work. In this little town of less than 40,000, I have been invited to stay for supper, breakfast, booze, and you name it. I've had it put to me cold that the old man won't be home for several hours so I'm welcome to stay and socialize, and maybe consider cutting down on the bill some.

Abby, I've been married 37 years so you know I'm no kid, and take my word for it, I'm no ladies' man. And most of these women are between 35 and 45.

Last Sunday I had a woman call me at six in the morning saying her furnace had gone out. I rushed over there and found that the only thing that had gone out was her husband.

What's a guy supposed to do? OIL MAN

DEAR OIL MAN: Deliver the oil, or fix the furnace, and get out of there.

DEAR ABBY: For the last four years I have been living with a man whom I love very much, and by the way he treats me I'm sure he loves me, too. A woman couldn't ask for a more gentle, loving man.

My problem is that I would love to carry his name, legally, but every time I mention getting married he gets nervous.

I'm afraid if I get too persistent, I may lose him. I have no family or real friends to talk to. I am 28 years old, unem-played and he is 31 and has a good job. He is very loyal to me and we have everything we need, except a marriage license. Abby, why should a piece of paper be so important to me?

PERFECT LOVE

DEAR "PERFECT": That "piece of paper" you want is more than a piece of paper. It's your man's name on the dotted line agreeing to accept all the responsibilities of marriage. This gives a woman the feeling of respectability and security. If your friend acts "nervous" when you mention marriage, maybe he has something to be nervous about. Like a wife somewhere.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "I RATE PLUMBER" who doesn't care for big-busted women. He allowed as how he wouldn't go around the corner to see one of those "top heavy cows."

Abby, where do men get the idea that big-bosomed women ENJOY being stared at? It just isn't so.

When I was 15 years old I had to have my brassieres special ordered because I needed a 46D, and still do. No one will ever know how I have suffered because I had too much of what lots of girls would like to have more of. A small-bosomed girl can always add a little padding, but what is a big girl supposed to do? We can't help what the good Lord gave us, and as far as I know there isn't anything to make us smaller.

Jim: "Here is a letter from J. Edward Morrow of Joplin, Mo. Sounds as if he might be an old friend."

Oswald: "He certainly is. When I first came to Dallas Jed was a reporter on the Dallas News who doubled in brass by teaching bridge and writing a weekly bridge column. He attended your parents' wedding and has known you since you were born. You don't remember him because he retired 30 years ago and moved to Joplin. He is at least 80 years young and maybe 90. He and Mrs. Morrow are still regular duplicate players although they don't get far from Joplin."

Jim: "He encloses an interesting hand. I notice that you tend to bid more as you get older, and apparently Mr. Morrow has this tendency."

Oswald: "Let's see. He checked for aces and kings and put Mrs. Morrow in seven clubs when she showed the missing ones."

Jim: "You wouldn't bid that way with mother. You might go all the way to seven no-trump, but I guess you would settle for six."

Oswald: "That would be a pretty good contract at match points."

Jim: "You can't blame West for doubling. He must have been really mad when Mrs. Morrow proceeded to make the contract."

Oswald: "Jed calls the play a left-hand coup because it is made against the left-hand opponent. Mrs. Morrow led a club to her ace at trick two and got the news about the 5-0 trump break. Many players might have conceded down one but Mrs. Morrow played it out. She took her ace of clubs and finessed her nine. Then she led the three to dummy's eight so that dummy was left with the king-jack of clubs in back of West's queen-10. Then she just cashed her high cards in the other suits, making sure to wind up in her own hand. Poor West had to follow suit until finally Mrs. Morrow led a spade at trick 12. West had to ruff and dummy overruffed."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

"FOREVER": (Q.) I'm in love. He's 15. I'm 13. It's been going on since we met two years ago. He told me he loved me then. He still tells me. His best friends say I'm all he ever thinks about.

Now he wants us to go all the way. But I don't want to take chances. He also says that no matter what I decide he'll wait for me always. I believe him.

Should I let him do what he wants? Should I make him wait? I don't want to lose him. I've told him I'm his forever.—A Reader in Bridgeport, Conn.

(A.) A 13-year-old girl is too young for always and forever. She is also too young for all the way.

So tell your friend no and stick to it. Tell him gently and stick to it firmly.

I do not believe you will lose him. But never do what you know is wrong for fear of losing a boy. That goes not only for this boy but for the others who will follow. There will be others, you know, even though you don't think so now.

NEEDS TO TALK: (Q.) I'm 14 and I need to talk to somebody about things. I try to talk to some of my teachers, but they give me the same answer every time: "Talk with your parents."

I wish I could! My mother and I talk about boys, but all she can think about is me having BABIES from going with them. She wants me to just walk off every time a boy tries to talk with me.—T, in Dallas.

(A.) You are old enough to be interested in boys and to be talking with them—in person and over the telephone. Your parents are lucky that you want to ask them questions about things that are important to you (and them) NOW.

Please show them this answer! (Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Paradox, Problem of ABC-TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—When ABC-TV canceled its controversial new series, "Turn-On," it pointed up the paradox and problem of the network, smallest of the three major broadcasting organizations.

The situation is that, as the underdog network, ABC-TV tries to break down the programming patterns of its two larger competitors, CBS-TV and NBC-TV, because it cannot compete with them on their own terms.

In order to achieve this breakdown, ABC-TV frequently takes a gamble with longshot programming—hoping a way-out show can turn into a very hot fad that shakes things up, and draws attention, and money, to the network.

Successful Gamble

"Batman," though short-lived, was a successful gamble. So was "Shindig," a youth-oriented music show.

What we have here, upon examination, is the paradox that arises from ABC-TV's underdog problem. And this is the fact that the network, in trying to chop down CBS-TV and NBC-TV, is going against the grain of the programming pattern that has made its competitors rich, and is a proven success.

This pattern, basically, is that you do as little as possible to disturb the comforting nature of most regular series for viewers—and save your excitement and shake-it-up programming for specials. NBC-TV may have "Laugh-In," and CBS-TV may have the Smother Brothers, but otherwise, they essentially follow the success pattern.

The Difference

But, you may ask, in regard to ABC-TV's "Turn-On," what about NBC-TV's "Laugh-In"?

The difference is that both know about controversy from NBC-TV and CBS-TV, in addition to being bigger and, therefore more confident, have had considerable more experience in handling this kind of controversial programming, and dealing with reaction.

NBC-TV, for instance, had Jack Paar and "That Was the Week That Was." As for "Laugh-In," there is nothing like a No. 1 rating to soften fire.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

The only person more annoying to the boss than the clockwatcher is the fellow who spends his time clocking the clockwatcher.

Put first things first and you'll be so busy arranging stuff that you'll never get anything done.

February is the shortest month of the year, which helps to make up, in part, for the general cussedness of the month.

At our house, we've found the best way to serve turnips: seldom.

Counting chickens before they're hatched is now done by computer.

If some of your change feels greasy, it may be counterfeit; it may also be change you received at the local beaneery.

Our secretary is tops in the field when it comes to punctuation.

Largest use of salt is by industry in the preparation of chemicals, such as the fabricated stew served in the plant cafeteria.

There is absolutely no significance to the coincidence that Buzzard Day, March 16, also marks the beginning of National Salesmen's Week.

Someone just called to tell us that February will be filled with frantic celebrations of Frozen Potato Month. On looking out the window, we see a couple tomatoes passing by who also look real cool, either way you take the remark.

Turn the other cheek and you'll nick yourself with the razor again.

The most useless thing to take for a cold is someone else's advice.

Ray's Views On State

ALBANY Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan of Kingston joined some 30 fellow mayors of the New York State Mayors Conference here today to discuss the proposed 1969-70 New York State Budget.

Garraghan blamed the 1968 legislature for the current fiscal condition of the state. He said, "The increase to Kingston in 1969 on a per capita basis was $308,000, so what is a five per cent cut?"

The mayor said that he received notice of state increases to the city in a letter June 28, 1968. "We couldn't believe it," he said. "Sure, we will take the additional funds... if it's going to be handed out. The state cannot afford it and they should have known it when legislation was passed in 1966. Let's cut five per cent now and five per cent in 1970," he said.

Garraghan also had comments on Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's alleged presidential ambitions, former state commissioner of education James E. Allen, Jr. the state school system, urban renewal and sewage treatment plans.

On Rockefeller: "The honeymoon is over. The flying carpet to the White House is on the ground, to stay."

On Allen: "A man who never knew what it was to earn a dollar and proved it while on the payroll of our state."

The school system: "Every child isn't college material. We need carpenters, tinsmiths, secretaries. Let's consider better programs for the trades and professional assistants. Frills and night school programs must be cut 50 per cent in every district."

On Urban renewal: "A cut or reduction is immoral and perhaps illegal. The state should study urban renewal commitments and in the future earmark funds for housing to replace those buildings demolished."

On sewer treatment and clean water programs: "I am for the program where such wastes go into our lakes and rivers. People in rural areas just can't afford the expenditure for something that is not essential to them."

Garraghan was accompanied on his trip to Albany by City Treasurer Stan J. Petro Jr.

Rash of Weekend Accidents in City

By WALTER S. CLARK KINGSTON A rash of traffic accidents investigated by city police during the weekend, injured a man and his wife, caused extensive property damage and resulted in citations for three motorists for vehicle and traffic law violations.

A Kingston couple sustained injuries Sunday afternoon in a two-car mishap at Foxhall and Hasbrouck Avenues. Police reports noted the drivers were Lawrence S. Williams, 35, of West Park and William M. Cuff, 26, of 81 Southfield Street. Williams was traveling north on Foxhall and Cuff was heading south when the vehicles collided. Cuff sustained a laceration of the lip, and Carol M. Cuff, 26, received injuries of the right knee.

Frank Colon, 42, of Box 213, Glasco, was cited by Kingston police Sunday for failure to keep to the right, following a two-car accident at East Chester Street and Hasbrouck Avenue. A car operated by Emanuel Colao, 59, of 159 Tammany Street, was stopped for traffic when the Colon vehicle making a right turn was in collision.

At 3:10 p. m. Sunday, Kingston police investigated a two-vehicle mishap on Albany Avenue at the Route 587 Interchange. Cars involved were operated by Kevin B. McCabe, 49, of 38 Hillside Avenue, Hurley and William F. O'Connell, 41, of 4 Scenic Drive, Poughkeepsie. No injuries were reported but O'Connell was cited for driving without a license.

Ellsworth K. Cook, 46, whose address was listed as Railroad Avenue, was summoned to appear in City Court to face charges of failure to keep to the right and failure to change his address on a driver's license, following an accident Sunday. He told police he was driving along Greenkill Avenue when he turned into a road he thought would lead to a bowling alley lot. The vehicle entered property of George Goldfarb of 575 Broadway and hit a pole.

Dethier was arrested by New Paltz Village Patrolman Richard Thompson early this morning, when according to the patrolman, Dethier was observed driving recklessly through the village. Patrolman Thompson halted Dethier on South Oakwood Terrace, and at that time Dethier reportedly refused to take a blood test to determine alcohol content.

Two Persons Hurt In County Crashes

ELLENVILLE A one-car mishap on Rock Hill Road, Town of Rochester Sunday afternoon was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment and later released.

Deputy Sheriff Roger Lapp reported Neil S. Lavikoff of Oakdale Avenue, Staten Island was issued a summons for failure to keep right and is scheduled for later appearance before a Town of Rochester justice.

Deputy Lapp said Lavikoff was rounding a curve on Rock Hill Road when he lost control, skidded about 200 feet across the left side of the highway and hit a utility pole with the left side of his vehicle. The 1969 coupe spun around in a half circle coming to rest about 10 feet south of the utility pole.

Lavikoff was taken to the hospital by Rondout Valley Rescue Squad. The mishap occurred about 5:40 p. m. The deputy said Lavikoff suffered a laceration of the upper lip and abrasions of the forehead.

Nancy Purcell, 34, sustained contusions of the right shoulder. Meanwhile, a 21-year-old Staten Island motorist involved in

A two-car collision on Route 209 north of Route 44-55 at 5 p. m. Sunday, resulted in injuries to a woman passenger and a citation for one driver for making an unsafe turn.

Herman Kirschner, 68, of Wawarsing, was driving north and attempting a left turn to enter the Casino Restaurant parking lot, when the car was in collision with a vehicle operated by Gleason Purcell, 33, of Kerhonkson. The summons was issued by Trooper Wayne Lawrence to Kirschner, troopers said.

At the time Dethier reportedly refused to take a blood test to determine alcohol content.

Recommendation Made

Dutchess Sales Tax?

By SHANE CROSBY POUGHKEEPSIE Ulster County's enactment of a one per cent sales tax last week apparently has spurred Dutchess County representatives to consider a like measure for their county's law books.

Representative Warren M. Wigsten, Republican from Pleasant Valley made the recommendation of a one per cent sales tax for Dutchess County over the weekend. His recommendation follows Ulster County's adoption of the tax last Thursday.

Wigsten, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Dutchess County Board of Representatives, was backed by fellow representative William Bartles of Hyde Park who called to have the tax applied to a relief of property taxes that are hitting small home owners.

Bartles was quoted as supporting the tax plan, saying it should be used for the relief of over-taxed property owners.

He called property taxes "archaic."

Wigsten noted the Ulster County passage of the tax and said "I don't know what other support there is for the tax, but I think we may be dragging our feet on the matter."

The county tax is one matter being investigated by the board's Tax and Equalization Committee under Representative John C. Hurtz of Beacon. In Ulster County, shoppers will have to pay a five per cent tax total on goods purchased in the City of Kingston, while three per cent will be charged outside the city; once the tax goes into effect in June.

Such Pile Relief She Can't Describe Says Mrs. H. Williams

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Hugh Williams of Louisville writes: "A good person recommended Preparation H to me and such help I can't describe. I don't know what in the world I'd do without it!"

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)
